British Guest Children Here Meet Geoffrey Shakespeare

Geoffrey Shakespeare, the Under-Secretary for Dominion Affairs in Britain, flew 6,000 miles to attend the happy gathering. At Miss Sara Spencer's home on Moss Street this morning he met 38 British children who were brought to Canada under the government evacuation scheme. He chats with Hilda Lomb, 12, who is staying at 930 Balmoral Road; Gladys and Sylvia Tait, aged 14 and 7, who are staying at 1281 Union Avenue.

Pamela Rossiter, who comes from London, presents a nosegay to Mrs. Thomas M. Snow of Ottawa, the English representative on the Children's Overseas Reception Board. (See story on page 2.)

Mark and Michael Stedman, aged 8 and 5, tell Mr. Shakespeare how they like living in Victoria, a long way from home.

Final Bulletins

E. W. Marland Dead

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP)—Ernest Whitworth Marland, 67, former governor of Oklahoma and an oil man who once controlled holdings valued at $85,000,000, died today.

Serb Girl Executed

SZEGED, Hungary (AP)—A 21-year-old Serbian girl was executed today for attempting to bomb a library September 19. Her 19-year-old girl companion, also a Serb, got 14 years in prison.

Nazis Claim Selo

BERLIN (AP)—Capture of Krasnoje Selo, 15 miles southwest of Leningrad, was claimed by DNB tonight as the Germans pounded at both ends of the long eastern front. The palatial buildings of the city, once the summer watering place of Russia's Czars and now a treasure house of Russian art, were occupied mostly intact, the news agency said.

Farm Losses

EDMONTON (CP)—Recurring rains in various parts of Alberta are causing a serious situation, and unless there is improvement, may cause heavy losses to farmers through lowered grades on grain, officials of the provincial Department of Agriculture reported today.

Postponed

LONDON (CP)—The War Office announced suddenly tonight it had been forced to postpone the start of repatriation of sick and wounded war prisoners which had been due to start tomorrow and which already had been started at the English Channel port of Newhaven.

The delay was occasioned by a message from Berlin, the war office said, adding that "the government is in touch with the German government and it is hoped it will be possible to make a further statement soon."

Torpedoed

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—A radiogram from the American freighter West Nilus today reported that the American-owned, Panama-registered tanker I. C. White was torpedoed 450 miles east of Recife, Brazil, on September 27 and that the West Nilus had rescued 18 of the crew of about 41 men.

It was in nearly the same area the American freighter Robin Moor was torpedoed last June on a voyage from New York for Capetown, South Africa.

May Get Bonus

VANCOUVER (CP)—Labor Minister Norman McLarty said today "the British Columbia government is giving very serious consideration to the possibility of cost-of-living bonus conditions applying to industries not directly associated with the war effort."

Mr. McLarty made the statement after meeting Premier Pattullo and Hon. George Pearson, provincial Minister of Labor.

Prague Mayor to Die, Jews Hanged by Nazis

BERLIN (AP)—DNB reported from Prague tonight "several persons, including a colonel in the former Czech army," had been sentenced to death by courts-martial and executed at Prague and Bruenn (Brno) on charges of preparation for high treason, sabotage and possession of arms.

Thirteen of the army officers were shot Thursday on accusation of organizing terroristic bands which planned to assassinate Czechs who collaborated with the Germans.

The official gazette in Berlin announced confiscation of the property of Jan Masaryk, Czechoslovak ambassador to London and son of the former republic's first president.

German authorities in Vichy reported to Berlin tonight 21 more persons have been executed in the German-occupied zone of France.

The mayor of Prague, Otakar Klapka, has been condemned to death by the people's court on charges of plotting rebellion, apparently in alleged conspiracy with the condemned premier of the Bohemia-Moravia protectorate, Gen. Alois Elias, Dienst aus Deutschland reported earlier.

This agency, with close official connections, quoted Prague sources as saying Elias had drawn Klapka into a plot.

Elias, also under sentence of death, has taken the only possible appeal from the verdict—to Hitler himself.

Klapka, in turn, was accused of recruiting other municipal officials for action against the German administration in the protectorate.

As German secret police continued their sweeping investigation into alleged rebellious activities in Bohemia-Moravia, Prague newspapers said 18 were executed in the protectorate Thursday—15 of whom were shot and three, Jews, hanged. They said 13 officers of the former Czechoslovak army were among those sentenced to die.

Dispatches from Prague said German firing squads were busy over night, but there was no official information on the exact number of executions carried out to date.

Advices Thursday indicated death sentences had been imposed upon 130 persons. It was not clear, however, how many of those had been executed and it was possible those shot over night were among the 130 listed previously as convicted.

None of the latest to die was identified here by name, but the Nazi propaganda bureau claimed some were Jews.

(A London dispatch to the Netherlands Indies News Agency in New York placed the total of executions in Holland at eight and said the specific charge was that they had aided British fliers.

(It quoted the German-controlled newspaper, Haagsche Courant, as announcing "the German authorities state punishment in the future will be even stricter and will be carried out more promptly.")

COLETTE'S LIFE SAVED

VICHY (AP)—Marshal Petain intervened today to save the life of Paul Colette, under death sentence for the attempted assassination of Pierre Laval and Marcel Deat.

The young Norman's sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Colette, who was sentenced to die by a special French court in Paris Wednesday, was saved from the guillotine at the last minute at the request of Laval and Deat themselves. They were gravely wounded in the attempt on their lives, which was made August 28 at a public ceremony. In Paris this morning six synagogues were blown up.

The explosions were caused by bombs which destroyed the interiors of the buildings and left only the walls standing.

Two persons were wounded.

The explosions occurred between 1 a.m. and 5 a.m.

Bombs which had been placed in a seventh synagogue were located and removed safely.

The synagogue bombings apparently were the work of unbridled right-wing terrorists, observers said. The bombings came as French and German authorities pressed a drive to quell opposition to their collaboration policy.

POLICE INVESTIGATE

The Paris police prefecture announced it was "actively investigating" the incidents, which followed closely the announcement Colette had been sentenced to death.

Synagogues in Marseilles and Vichy were slightly damaged recently by bombs, while at Nice three men and a woman passerby were killed by premature explosion of a bomb which police believed the men planned to place beneath a Jewish temple.

The bombings destroyed the famous temple on Rue de La Vierge which was the seat of the Jewish consistory of France and noused the archives, library and administrative offices of the grand rabbi.

The temple was a 19th century Paris landmark. It was a Byzantine structure, endowed and frequented by the House of Rothschild.

Another bomb destroyed the remains of James Rothschild, founder of that house, which were in the sephardic synagogue in Rue Notre Dame de Nazareth.

DEATH PENALTY

BUDAPEST (AP)—The government of Slovakia today decreed the death penalty for all persons convicted of sabotage.

705 EXECUTED

LONDON (CP)—Six governments in exile estimated today more than 705 persons have been executed by the German occupying authorities in their various countries since the start of the Russian war, June 22.

The Free French government estimated 400 Frenchmen have been executed in occupied France. Other estimates were: Czech 154, Polish 139, Belgian 44, Netherlands 8 and Norwegians 5.

A semi-official estimate for Yugoslavia put the number there at 60,000, but this was discounted in some quarters.

Hitler Boasts Reds Will Never Rise Again

BERLIN (AP)—Hitler, home from the Russian front to launch Germany's ninth winter relief campaign, claimed today Russia had been so stricken she "never again will rise up," and that "a gigantic new development" has opened on the front in the last 48 hours.

That development, he said, had made it especially difficult for him to leave his field headquarters.

"The decision now being fought out is for the next 100 years," he shouted.

Hitler declared Germany before the war had sought particularly to reach a settlement with Britain, but that Prime Minister Churchill had asked for war; that Russia had failed to live up to her nonaggression pact with Germany and had mobilized on the German borders.

"By August and September of last year it became clear that I had an enemy at the back ready to stab at any time," Hitler said.

He said Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov had come to Berlin late in 1940 seeking a commitment from Germany on Rumania and Finland. Hitler said he "declined all Russian suggestions that the U.S.S.R. extend her influence westward, including the Dardanelles."

The address lasted 65 minutes, and was made at the Berlin Sportsplatz.

Hitler asserted everything had proceeded according to plan since June 22, when the German armies struck into Russia.

"I have not been disappointed either in the German soldiers or the home front," he screamed.

He said he had painfully kept his silence for months while he knew that Russia, as he said, was preparing to attack.

That, Hitler said, was part of his traditional strategy of surprise. He added the decision to remain silent was "the hardest decision of my life," but that hundreds of thousands of lives were at stake.

"We were not mistaken about anything except that we did not know how awfully big the preparations were against us and how closely Europe escaped Bolshevism," he said.

"Something like a general awakening went through Europe, however. In the north, brave Finland. In the south, Rumania. Hitler enumerated the other states which had sent formations into the "crusade against Bolshevism."

Explaining his long silence since the Russian campaign started, Hitler said he could not have spoken until "the enemy had been hit so hard he never again will rise up."

To illustrate Germany's military position, he said that Russian prisoners now number 2,500,000.

He called the Russian forces "not human beings, but animals and beasts."

"That is what Bolshevism made of them," he declared.

He devoted much of the talk to a tribute to German soldiers, railway and road builders, the labor service, the Red Cross and other formations. The United States was never directly mentioned.

Hitler said he was not speaking "to answer any statesmen who may have been wondering at my long silence."

His last speech was before the Reichstag at the Kroll Opera House, May 4, although he issued a long proclamation at the start of the war with Russia.

In the customary review section of his address, Hitler said he had not lost sight of his goal since 1933, when he came to power.

UNIQUE

"What we have accomplished is unique," he said. "We did not need this war to place our names in history; the accomplishments of peace would have been sufficient for that."

"We never aimed at war, but one thing is certain; we would never have renounced German freedom."

As for his five-month silence, Hitler said "history will decide what was worth more—Churchill's speeches or my actions."

He declared Germany had tried to achieve disarmament among nations and better relations, but, he said, all Germany's gestures were repulsed.

"We gained friendship with Italy and Japan," Hitler said, "but unfortunately not with that nation I courted most—Britain. Now the British people must assume the responsibility."

He accused Prime Minister Churchill of crying "I want war." Although, through the years, he said, he (Hitler) had tried to reach an understanding with Britain.

"He has it now," Hitler snapped.

Hitler said that if all his attempts at agreement with Britain had failed in the past then nothing else could have achieved it. "Nothing was left but to fight. I thank fate that the fight can be led by me."

"Now Churchill has the war he wanted."

He said also there were efforts at an understanding with Poland.

"It must have been providence which prevented it," he said, apparently implying greater objectives now are possible.

HAND OF PEACE

Hitler recapitulated the occasions on which he said he "reached out the hand of peace." As a soldier, he continued, "I know how much blood, misery, suffering and sacrifice" there is in war.

He asserted Germany was saying little while operations were under way but that did not mean nothing was happening.

The area conquered in the east is four times as large as England, Hitler said, and twice as large as the Germany he took over in 1933.

"Weapons stand at the disposal of the German soldiers in unlimited quantities compared with the World War," he asserted. "We have an advantage in this respect that no power can surpass."

He emphasized these points: "First, we are putting the whole continent into our service; 'Second, we do not talk of capital but of the strength of labor; 'Third, that we are not talking does not mean we are not acting."

Germany today presents history's first example of a united people, Hitler said.

"The whole people is in the battle—partly at the front, partly at home."

"It is a people which for competence is unequalled on earth and measures up to every requirement for victory," he added.

Hitler ended his speech at 6:30 p.m. (8:35 a.m. P.S.T.) with these words: "Nation, help yourself; then the Lord will not deny His help."

Changes His Mind

Hitler told the German nation today that:

"The decision now being fought out is for the next 100 years." On May 10, 1940, the day of the invasion of the Low Countries, he declared:

"The fight beginning today decides the fate of the German nation for the next 1,000 years."

Australia to Have Labor Government

CANBERRA (AP)—Labor Leader John Curtin accepted a commission to form a new Australian government today shortly after Prime Minister Arthur W. Fadden tendered his cabinet's resignation following defeat on a motion regarded by the government as one of confidence.

Mr. Curtin, 56-year-old former timber worker, said he would announce his cabinet Monday. He has been leader of the opposition since 1935.

DEFEATED

Mr. Fadden submitted his cabinet's resignation to the Governor-General, Lord Gowrie, soon after being defeated on the confidence motion 36 to 33. Lord Gowrie then summoned the opposition leader.

Parliament recessed until October 8 to await developments.

The Premier-designate said the Labor government would "carry on the war wholeheartedly."

"The war involves the interests of labor more than those of any other class," he said.

He added he will ask the opposition to join the war advisory council when his government takes office.

The government's setback came on a Labor motion to reduce the administration budget by the nominal sum of one pound sterling. Fadden previously had announced he would regard passage of the motion as a vote of censure.

The Labor victory was assured when A. W. Coles, an independent, withdrew his support from the government, thus depriving it of the one-vote majority it has held in the House through a combination of the United Australia and Country Parties.

VOTED WITH LABOR

The other lone Independent, Alexander Wilson, also voted with Labor.

Coles saved the government from a vote of censure only last week when he supported it on a motion relating to a secret fund to combat subversive activities in Australia.

A former Lord Mayor of Melbourne, Coles quit the United Australia Party after the controversy which resulted in Robert G. Menzies' resignation as Prime Minister August 28.

That controversy grew from the Labor Party's opposition to a proposal that Menzies go to London to be available for consultation with the British war cabinet.

German Planes Pound Cities in Britain

LONDON (CP)—Perhaps signalling the end of the summer lull in the Battle of Britain, German bombers Thursday night pounded long and hard at five cities on Britain's southeast and northeast coasts, and today Nazi cannon on the French coast heavily bombarded ships passing through Dover Strait.

For one of the five towns it was the worst raid of the entire war, with many persons trapped in shattered buildings.

The R.A.F. directed overnight raids at the docks at Brest, France, where German warships lie, at St. Nazaire and at air dromes in German-held territory, while offensive patrols today set fire to a German supply ship off Gravelines, sank an anti-aircraft ship and damaged six others, the Air Ministry reported.

In the lengthened night the German raiders were guided to their targets by a harvest moon so bright that in some cases they were able to swoop to machine gun the streets and firefighters at work there.

10 KILLED

At least 10 persons were listed as killed and 50 injured in a southeast coast town which the Germans attacked in three waves. Homes were destroyed, some buildings were hit, and a meeting hall was wrecked shortly after a gathering had broken up.

Shopping districts and residential sections of a northeast coast town were riddled by a sharp attack, the second in three nights. Casualties in both dead and wounded were admittedly heavy, a number of lives being lost when a direct hit wrecked a public shelter.

F.D.R. Says

Attempt Soon To Revise Act

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt asserted again today that undoubtedly there would be some effort made to revise the Neutrality Act.

A final decision on the matter, he told his press conference, would be reached only after a bipartisan conference next Tuesday with Senate leaders.

On the issue of arming American merchant vessels, now forbidden by the law, the President said in response to a question that he considered the statute so definite on this point that it would not be right for him to try to wiggle out from the definite policy of Congress.

He said, too, that he had given no thought of revising present delineations of combat zones by presidential order.

The President indicated he believed the whole neutrality law problem could be threshed out at Tuesday's conference.

Both Republican and Democratic leaders will be asked to the White House for it, and chairman Sol Bloom (Democrat, New York) of the House of Representatives foreign affairs committee will be asked to sit in as an observer.

CIVILIAN CONSCRIPTION

ROME (AP)—The Fascist national bureau for conscription of civilian workers announces 8,460,000 laborers were called up by September 9. This practically completes civilian conscription in Italy, it was stated. The bureau is entrusted with the task of replacing in industry men called to the colors.

Nazis Thrown Back 30 Miles

Associated Press

Russia's Red armies reported today they had thrown the Germans back nearly 30 miles on the Leningrad front, overrun Nazi siege trenches around the old Czarist capital, and inflicted more than 8,700 casualties on the long battleline from the Gulf of Finland to the Black Sea.

A BBC broadcast said the Russians had recaptured Strelina, 20 miles west of Leningrad, hurled the Germans back nearly 30 miles to Lake Ladoga from Ropino, and re-established communications between Leningrad and Moscow.

Soviet marines were said to have executed a bold landing west of Leningrad and dug in on the gulf coast where Nazi batteries have bombarded Kronstadt, Russian naval base which guards the sea approach to the great northern metropolis.

For the first time since Marshal Klementi Voroshilov proclaimed a death-stand defence for Leningrad 44 days ago, a Red army bulletin declared the situation around the siege-girt city was definitely stronger.

The Russians said 1,500 Germans were killed and at least 1,500 wounded on the northern (Leningrad) front, 3,000 killed and wounded on the central (Moscow) front, and 2,700 annihilated on southwest (Ukraine) front.

In a violent two-day battle in the Ukraine, Soviet dispatches said the Germans left the field "strewn with corpses, smashed tanks and guns," and that the Dnieper River was carrying away thousands of the invaders' dead.

While the Nazi high command reported tersely operations were proceeding "successfully," military advisers reaching London indicated Germany's revised war plans might start a new drive toward Moscow from the Ukraine, veering north from the bitterly-contested Kharkov sector in the Donets River basin.

The German high command communique said German bombers Thursday night struck at military installations in Moscow and armament works south-east of Kharkov, in the Donets basin.

Editorials in leading Russian papers hailed the successful conclusion of the three-power war supply conference in Moscow as "a great political defeat of Hitlerite Germany."

Red Star, organ of the Soviet army, declared the conference "launched a new stage in the history of the struggle of freedom-loving peoples against blood-stained Hitlerism."

"Simultaneously," Red Star added, "the conference pre-determines the successful outcome of this struggle."

W. Averill Harriman and Lord Beaverbrook, heads of the United States and British delegations to the conference, visited Russian armaments factories today with members of their delegations.

They were dining last night in Lord Beaverbrook's hotel when air raid sirens sounded a warning. They retired to a shelter, where they completed their meal

Warning Given In Chief's Case

TORONTO (CP)—Attorney-General Gordon Conant today warned law enforcement officials under his jurisdiction they must not "lend themselves to sensational journalism" in the case of Brig.-Gen. D. C. Draper, Toronto police chief who is charged with dangerous driving.

"There will be no suppression in this case but there will be no undue disclosures," the Attorney-General said. "It must be treated by our officials as an ordinary case affecting an ordinary citizen."

Mr. Conant said he had received objections "to the amount of notoriety Chief Draper is being given in the case."

Mr. Conant said he had asked W. H. Stringer, provincial police commissioner, to investigate how a Toronto evening newspaper obtained a copy of the summons issued against Gen. Draper for publication of a photograph of it. The commissioner had reported that the "photograph as published" was obtained from a junior clerk in the Bowmanville police office, Mr. Conant said.

'I'm Glad You're So Well'

British Children Make Mr. Shakespeare Happy

Thirty-eight English children who are staying in Victoria for the duration of the war had a party this morning in Miss Sara Spencer's home on Moss Street.

Little boys with polished cheeks and slicked-down hair, little girls in dainty frocks and bigger girls in middie-ate cookies and drank ginger ale. Those who couldn't find chairs sat around on the carpet, swapped stories about their life in Canada, and chatted about home.

Then a tall, kindly-looking man with a long face and a twinkle in his eye came into the room. There was a hush, then a bustle around and the children sat and squatted in a semicircle.

The man with the twinkle told them stories about children down in the tubes in London during air raids. He told them a thrilling story about flying across the Atlantic in a bomber. But the real excitement was when he told them he was going back to England soon and was going to tell their parents how they were getting along in Canada.

The kindly-looking man was Geoffrey H. Shakespeare, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs in the British government. The kiddies were part of his "family" of 1,530 British guest children who, he said, had given a lot of worry, but who had relieved his mind because he found them getting along so well.

Mr. Shakespeare came to Canada to find out and he told the children he would be delighted to tell their parents he had found them so happy.

Miss Spencer threw her home open this morning to the children and their Foster parents so Mr. Shakespeare and Mrs. Thomas Snow, of the Children's Overseas Reception Board in Ottawa, could meet them. Mr. Shakespeare was late arriving because he had taken an early morning trip to see some other British children at Fairbridge Farm School. But the children enjoyed their little party while they were waiting.

TELLS OF EDUCATION

F. E. Winslow, the local representative of the board, introduced him, and Mr. Shakespeare immediately launched into telling the children the story of his adventures.

"You know," he said, "you're all part of my very large family, which has given me a lot of trouble and a lot of anxiety. There are 1,530 of you in all parts of Canada and I felt I must come over to see you."

"So three weeks ago I got into a bomber in England and flew across the Atlantic. I had breakfast in England and dinner in Montreal. Since then I've flown everywhere. I haven't been in a train at all. I got into one automobile, but it broke down."

"And yesterday, of course, I saw the Rockies, huge and glistening. That is, I saw them on a picture postcard, because when we flew over them it was nothing but clouds, and we might just as well have been flying the Atlantic. I was glad to see the sea again, because I'm a little nervous flying over land."

SPEECH BEFORE BREAKFAST

"This morning they got me up at 6 and took me up to Fairbridge School. And they actually made me make a speech before breakfast, something I've never done before."

"And now children I want to tell you how glad I am to see you all settled down so nicely. I'm sure you all feel Canada is a second home. That is what other children have told me."

"When I hear some of you say 'O.K.' and 'sure,' I know you must have fitted in well. When boys say those things to me I have to ask what they mean. And I must tell you about one boy who heard his father talking on the BBC and said: 'My hasn't he got an English accent!'"

"The children have all told me how they like the schools and how everyone is so friendly."

Mr. Shakespeare recalled a scene at an English port when he had seen shiploads of the children embark for Canada early in the war.

"You said good bye and you sang 'There'll Always Be An England' and then you went on board ship. I felt very sad to see you go because you know there is danger in crossing the ocean. But now I see you all smiling here I'm very happy. I hope you are all grateful to your foster parents who have done so much for you. I have two children of my own, and I know how naughty they can be. Your foster parents have given you safe sanctuary from horrible things. When I have gone down in the tubes and seen children sheltering there from the air raids I wish we could have sent more children here."

SACRED TRUST

"To your foster parents I want to say how grateful the parents of Britain are for the way you have carried out a sacred trust in caring for what they prize most—their children. I felt the best way to show our gratitude was to come here in person—but, of course, I'm enjoying myself no end, too."

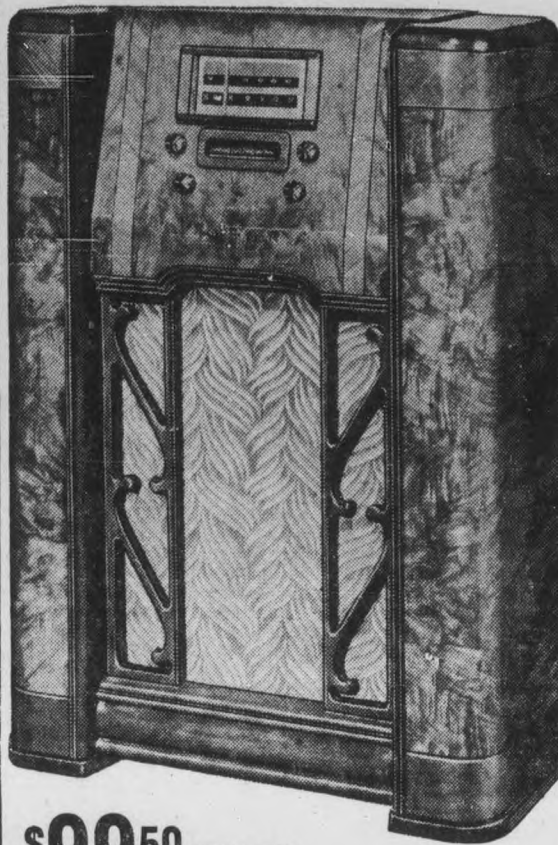

Mr. Shakespeare praised the record of B.C. welfare authorities who handled arrangements for the children. Then he announced he had a list of all their names and he wanted to speak to every one of them so he could write their parents when he got back to England.

"I can see you're all looking well," he said. "And you have probably put on weight. In Ottawa one girl told me she had put on 50 pounds and grown seven inches."

The children gasped in astonishment and Mr. Shakespeare added, "I told her she must have hollow legs."

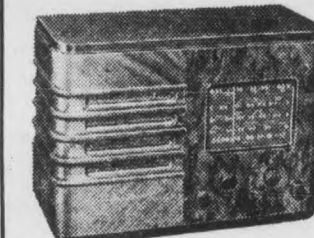

Mr. Shakespeare spent the next hour talking to each one of the children. They told him how much they had grown, how they

However, at a private dinner he met provincial welfare representatives and officials of the Children's Aid Society and representatives of the board. Among those attending were P. Walker, deputy provincial secretary; Dr. G. F. Davidson, welfare director; Miss A. L. Mess, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society; Mrs. G. Hughes, supervisor of the overseas children for the society; J. R. Scoffey, Dr. Richard Felton, city health officer; Mr. Winslow, Miss Spencer and Mrs. Frances Barr.

Mr. Shakespeare has already visited children in Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina and Edmonton. From Vancouver he will fly to Chicago, then New York and return to Montreal, Fredericton and Halifax before going back to England.

Iceland Girls' Hauteur Tries Occupation Troops

By DREW MIDDLETON

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP)—The attitude of Icelanders toward British and American occupation is something like that of the cowboys who, when asked by a traveler whether he could share their berth, hollered: "O.K., brother, come on in—but don't wear any spurs!"

So far, no spurs have appeared. Military authorities and their men have treated Icelanders with consideration, acted with correctness.

Great care has been taken in planning camps so as not to interfere with the island's scanty agriculture. Damages in accidents by military traffic have been paid speedily by authorities.

This combination of tact and courtesy has produced a friendly feeling on the part of Icelandic authorities, and this was bolstered considerably by British purchases of Icelandic largest export—dried fish.

RESIGNED

The press was won over. A trip to Britain for leading Icelandic journalists was lavish. Every newspaper except the weekly Communist organ has been, if not jubilant over the occupation, at least resigned to it.

The army of occupation be taught. They would not refrain from listening to London broadcasts "despite sentences of death and penal servitude." "It is unfair to listen to London, and disrespectful to the Fuehrer who is doing his best for touches the lives of civilian Iceland daily. When a large army of men is plunked down in the middle of a civilian population which hasn't known war in a century and a quarter, there's bound to be friction.

There is less friction in the countryside than in Reykjavik. Little groups of British soldiers in outposts overcame the natural hostility by sharing their rations, lending medical aid and inviting villagers to concerts.

Reykjavik is different. Both British and American troops are spirited, and the hauteurs of Icelandic girls tries them sorely. This has been broken down to some extent, and dances attended by troops and local talent now seem imbued with good spirit.

The main point of difference between British enlisted men and American marines, as a matter of fact, is the girls.

A British truck driver told me "the only time you get anywhere with a girl now is a dark night when you can pretend you're American. They've got better-looking uniforms than ours and more money."

The real source of antagonism toward the troops on the part of the older people is what they describe as encroachment of British and American manners, customs and styles upon ancient Icelandic culture.

The German nation," Goebbels said. "Remember the devastating effects of British propaganda in the last war. We know that this war is our last and greatest chance."

Eire People Not Convinced Of Danger Yet

DUBLIN (CP)—Irish who believe the best interests of Eire would be served by handing over strategic bases to Great Britain and getting into the war have only two parliamentary spokesmen, James Dillon in the Dail and Frank MacDermot in the Senate.

Under present circumstances, Dillon and MacDermot have a difficult row to hoe. Observers say there is no evidence yet the populace is convinced it is in danger from any of the belligerents.

Both Dillon and MacDermot have insignificant parliamentary followings. Dillon, in the opinion of observers, might muster a half-dozen supporters in a Dail of 137 members while MacDermot could perhaps do a little better with nine or 10 senators out of a total of 60.

Dillon is the more important of the two. He is deputy leader of the opposition, next to William T. Cosgrave himself in the Fine Gael party, and he is a member of the national defence conference.

Dillon's views on the war are not shared by all his colleagues of the Fine Gael Party. When he made a speech a few weeks ago urging Prime Minister De Valera to get into the war at once "in the interests of Christianity and civilization," he was immediately repudiated by Cosgrave. There was some talk of expelling him from the party, but it remained just talk.

His early days were spent in a Chicago department store. His American experience served to increase his admiration for the British Commonwealth of Nations. In season and out, Dillon advocates the commonwealth, attacking the government idea that Eire can be really self-sufficient.

MacDermot, chief spokesman for the British cause in the Senate, is a descendant of the ancient Irish princes of Coolavin. He is frankly pro-British. He has big interests in the private banking firm of Guinness Mahon.

While in London he stays at Boodle's Club where he is regarded as an agent of "that impossible man, De Valera." This greatly amuses him. His wife and family went to North America when the war began.

Canadian Pilot Says

'If You Bomb Wisely You're Pretty Safe'

LONDON (CP)—Peppered by so many German anti-aircraft shells that they lost count of the number of holes in their plane, the crew of a Wellington bomber brought their aircraft safely back to Britain after a nerve-racking raid on Frankfurt.

"They tried to count the holes when we got back," said P.O. Orval Hughes of Niagara Falls, N.Y., "but lost track after finding 23 good ones. And they didn't include the scratches and small holes in the 23."

Two Canadians, P.O. Alan Fawley of North Battleford, Sask., and Sgt. Jimmy Lovelace of Sydney, N.S., were members of the crew which included F.O. Jack Leslie, a New Zealander who was plane's captain, and two English gunners.

Hughes, second pilot and a graduate of the British Commonwealth air training plan, was making his third operational flight and described it as "the roughest I've ever had."

"As soon as the Germans heard the bombs coming down, they let us have it with everything they've got," he said. "The motors began to splutter."

"At about that time Leslie told us to get ready to have breakfast in a prison camp," Hughes said. "I think we've had it," he said, but we managed to break away and I don't mind telling you I breathed easier when we got back into the night."

There were holes in nearly every part of the plane but no one got even a scratch.

Hughes trained at Prince Albert, Sask., and Camp Borden, Ontario.

His idea about the bombing "game" is that "if you play it wisely you're pretty safe."

Wartime Shorthand

By SIGRID ARNE

WASHINGTON (AP)—There is a new sort of shorthand developing in occupied parts of Europe. It shows up in innocent-looking letters about family life from conquered peoples to their friends here.

Actually the letters smuggle out, right under the censors' noses, tips about blacked-out Europe.

With some of the details left out, here are letters in the new shorthand. There is one which gives an inkling of the damage R.A.F. bombers are doing. It says, "We spend our evenings quietly on the porch reading and playing games. It is beautiful at sunset when the river reflects the rosy glow all the way down to the bend."

Here's the catch: The Washington recipient has visited that modest home. It stands some blocks back from the river, and between it and the river there are—or were—solid rows of big warehouses and docks.

If the family can see down to the bend in the river, the warehouses are gone.

There is a letter from one German family which, before the war, included the parents and six grown children. They wrote recently telling how little war had really affected them, how well they all are, and they send affection from everyone in the family to everyone in the American family—so they say they will all sign their names.

The names of two sons are missing from the signatures.

Remedy Found For Sterility

CINCINNATI (AP)—A method of ending sterility in some women by elimination of obstructions in the Fallopian tubes was described to the American Roentgen Ray Society at the closing sessions of its 42nd annual meeting.

Dr. Charles L. Martin of Dallas, Texas, reported that in a quarter to two-thirds of all cases examined, sterility resulted from closing of the Fallopian tubes, through which the egg descends from the ovary, by lesions or constrictions.

He described a method of slowly pumping either a gas or an iodized oil into the tubes, with the patient under X-ray observation so the physician can keep an immediate check on progress.

The pressure is slowly increased until the obstructed point reaches normal diameter. The iodized oil method is used if the gas fails to achieve the desired result.

Goebbels Hedges On Nazi Losses

LONDON (CP)—Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels indulged in a bit of hedging Thursday when questioned about German casualties in the Russian campaign.

The BBC said that when he was asked whether an estimate of 3,000,000 German losses was exaggerated, Goebbels replied: "We cannot answer as we have no exact figures."

But, the BBC said, only a few days ago Goebbels said figures of casualties in the Russian campaign had been "most accurately computed."

Described by the BBC as "the most imaginative writer in the world," Goebbels in Berlin has registered another plea against listening to BBC news broadcasts.

"What is the BBC news worth?" the German minister asked. "Listeners are only asking for worry and sleepless nights."

The BBC quoted Goebbels as saying that "even in Germany there were people who could not

Curtin Gets His Chance

AUSTRALIA'S PARLIAMENT TOOK A test today on a Labor motion to reduce the administration's budget by the nominal sum of one pound—a procedure often resorted to when political strength and governmental policy require special treatment. The short-lived regime of Mr. Arthur W. Fadden went down to defeat by three votes. The Prime Minister had previously announced that he would regard Labor's motion as one of confidence. Mr. John Curtin, leader of the Labor opposition, has been invited to form a new cabinet; Parliament will remain in recess until October 8 when the atmosphere is clearer.

While leader of the opposition, Mr. Curtin has been a spirited critic of the Menzies and the Fadden governments, steadfastly refusing to have anything to do with a coalition regime. From the beginning of the war, however, his party has vied with the government—composed of members of the United Australia and Country parties—in its service to and in furtherance of democracy's cause against the common enemy. But he had contended that with an administration majority in the House of Representatives of only one vote, and especially in view of an incipient revolt against what Labor has considered, rightly or wrongly, to be the somewhat high-handed attitude of the late Menzies regime and of Mr. Menzies personally, the strong political organization of which he is the leader should be given an opportunity to try its hand in governing the country. And he has made it clear today that a Labor government will "carry on the war wholeheartedly"—a point on which there has been no doubt. Mr. Curtin also has announced he will ask the opposition to join the war advisory council when his ministry takes office.

Whether the Premier-designate will call an election, or whether he will be able to come to some arrangement with the coalition that will now sit on the left of Mr. Speaker, is not known as this is written. Until Mr. Curtin has formed his cabinet, a task which may be no sinecure in a House so evenly divided in political strength, it would be foolish to speculate. What can be taken for granted, however, is that the magnificent service rendered to the British cause, under the government of both Mr. Menzies and Mr. Fadden, will be no less comprehensive and progressive under the direction of a new leader who has repeatedly asked for a chance of governing because he thinks he can do a still more effective job.

Japan and Iran

JAPAN HAS PROTESTED STRONGLY to the Iranian government because Japanese diplomatic privileges at the legation in Tehran have been suspended. Tokyo suggests that British pressure has worked in the capital of the new Shah's domain. And we are told that graver aspects may develop at any moment, and that Japan is ready to take "prompt, effective action in the event the British and Iranian governments fail to give satisfactory replies to the protests."

Nipponese spokesmen have branded as "absolutely false" British accusations that the Japanese legation in Tehran had sheltered Germans and the refugee Grand Mufti of Jerusalem—a pro-Axis tool. But Japan surely does not expect to impress either Britain or Iran with fulminations of this kind. At the same time, if the men of Tokyo are in the mood to make good their threats of "prompt and effective action," well and good. What they can do in Iran is not clear. What they may be disposed to do in the Pacific, of course, is another matter. But Japan has used so many words in threatening to push her "New Order" plans that a few more extravagant phrases will make little difference. Other people can be "tough," too.

Advocates No Change

ALTHOUGH THE MORNING PAPER LABORIOUSLY endeavors to detect something about which to complain in an advertisement published by the government party in this province, and unsuccessfully tries to find a specific grievance with which to belabor Mr. Pattullo, it is to the credit of the Colonist that in its long editorial today it studiously avoids the slightest suggestion of a change in British Columbia's administration. Not that our contemporary will openly ask its readers to support Liberal candidates; but it knows, as do the vast majority of the electors, that this province cannot afford at this stage of national emergency to disturb the highly-beneficial collaborative war policy which marks the relationship between Victoria and Ottawa.

We do not subscribe to the specious argument that such co-operation is contingent upon governments at the provincial and national capitals wearing the same political label. For this newspaper has roundly denounced the threadbare oppositionist innuendo that adherents to an outworn Tory philosophy have an exclusive monopoly on what is conveniently described as patriotism. We are all loyal Canadians and equally devoted to the prosecution of the conflict on the outcome of which depends our survival as free men and free women. In the building of that new order in which the services of all the people of this country will be required, incidentally, we may as well make up our minds to the fact that reactionary elements, whether they masquerade as old-line Tories or whether they call themselves Conservatives, will have no place. This school of thought is as extinct as the dodo in Canada, in Britain, and in other parts of the British Commonwealth.

The present government in British Columbia—the governments of every Canadian province and the government of Mr. MacKenzie King—has made mistakes. Not even an administration of archangels would be so bold as to promise perfection; and if it has taken the Colonist a long time to rid itself of the concept that only a cabinet composed of Conservatives can serve the common weal in dark days and bright, the fact that it recommends no change in British Columbia's regime confirms us in the view that it has seen the light. In other words, our contemporary, in common with an intelligent electorate, knows how foolish and dangerous it would be at this stage of Canada's prosecution of the national war effort to exchange an efficient government of proven administrative ability—with an eminently sound record of public service—for one out of touch with the essential mechanism now running smoothly in the channels of all-out collaboration in respect of the nation's emergency.

Much Better

CANADA'S DEPARTMENT OF LABOR is pleased with the situation on the industrial and labor front of the Dominion. With the settlement of the Pacific Bolt Company's strike at Vancouver, there is not a single strike now in effect in the war industrial plants of the country. And in view of the fact that the Dominion has a working population of approximately 3,100,000, exclusive of agricultural workers, the present state of affairs is more satisfactory than it has been since the war began.

We in Canada have gone through months of strikes and threats of strikes which have caused uneasiness in other quarters besides government offices at Ottawa; it has been a sorry spectacle for those mothers and fathers who have sons in the navy or army or air force. This is not an attempt to place the blame on either party to any dispute which has interfered with vital war production during the last two years. But it would be gratifying to all Canadians if they could look forward to a substantial period without serious industrial trouble. If Britain can find a way to carry on in her factories, despite the ever-present threat of bombs, without stoppage, there is something radically wrong somewhere if employer and employee in Canada cannot do likewise.

While the recently-inaugurated "cooling-off" procedure provided for by a special Order-in-Council sponsored by Hon. Norman McLarty, Minister of Labor, has been attacked in some quarters—either because it goes too far or because it does not go far enough—it at least does furnish machinery that favors and facilitates the employment of reason and calm judgment.

Legitimate Advertising

WHEN THE COLONIST SAYS "THESE are days of propaganda and the trumpets of self-esteem are resounding more loudly with their brazen notes" it must have been writing with its editorial tongue in its cheek. It is referring to the Premier of the province and the government he is asking the people of British Columbia to endorse next October 21. What does the morning paper expect Mr. Pattullo and his colleagues to do? What does it expect Mr. Maitland and his party to do—the fact that the oppositionists have so little to talk about notwithstanding?

If our contemporary will refer to its advertising pages it will note that the merchant with goods to sell invites inspection and purchase because he believes he has excellent values to offer. Mr. Pattullo, like the merchant, does not apologize for the claims he makes. Why should he? It is obvious, of course, the Colonist is faced with an important decision; it knows how dangerous and foolish it would be at this stage of British Columbia's contribution to the nation's all-out war effort to subject this province to the disturbance which a change of government would necessarily involve. And Mr. Pattullo has every right to try to sell his "goods" to the public. He is the servant of the people and wants to know how they feel about the all-absorbing business of these times and his government's part in it.

LIGHT ON RUSSIA

From Manchester Guardian

There has been a great searching of minds in this country since Soviet Russia was suddenly found to be fighting on our side against the common enemy. Out of the City of London, where hostility to the economic and social beliefs of the Soviets has naturally been strong, a remarkably frank document has reached us which illustrates the mental adjustment now in process. It is a circular letter sent by an old-fashioned firm of stockholders to its clients:

"Many of us now feel that, although we are delighted to witness the dissipation of German strength in the attack on Russia, we would nevertheless view with misgiving a too substantial Russian victory. This is a dangerous attitude in which to enter a partnership."

"If we are to make a success of our alliance with Russia we need to abandon our attitude of pious condemnation and to balance our knowledge of the cruder acts of Bolshevism with some knowledge of what has been achieved in Russia during the past 24 years. Unless we do this and unless we attempt to establish some bond of sympathy and understanding our partnership is likely to prove a source of danger rather than strength."

ARCHDUKE

THE ARCHDUKE OTTO of Vienna has lately been in these parts and appears to be not only a charming but a very intelligent young man. That he should be traveling like any ordinary visitor and dining with groups of ordinary citizens shows you, in a flash, how much has happened to the institutions of Europe in the last 20 years. According to the well-regulated traditions of the Hapsburgs, young Otto should now be sitting in the throne room at Schoenbrunn surrounded by a glittering court and ruling the empire of Austria and Hungary by royal decree. Instead of which he is going about Canada in a Pullman car, talking to Canadians who never heard of Schoenbrunn and think Vienna is an old waltz tune.

When the Hapsburgs left the throne of Austria it seemed like a very good thing. They had sat on it much too long and had had far too much control over the fate of Europe from the time of Charles V onward. Some of them were great rulers. Others were punks. On the whole, according to our democratic notions, the Hapsburgs were highly undesirable and richly needed to be kicked out of Vienna so that triumphant democracy could take their place.

THEY LIKED THEM

WELL, they were duly kicked off, but democracy didn't take their place. In due course Hitler took their place. The man who had once slept in the flophouses and stews of Vienna came rolling back in a limousine (safely behind his tanks) after promising to leave Austria strictly alone. Then the world began to think that maybe the Hapsburgs weren't so bad after all. At least they behaved like gentlemen. And the Austrians seemed to like them.

I was in Vienna once, just before Hitler got there, and I found the people looking back on the Hapsburgs' time as a happy time. No doubt there was some nostalgia about it and illusion, but they seemed to think that, for all the faults of the court, it was a better time when Vienna was gay and there was dancing in the streets.

In the days just before Hitler came the people still tried to keep up a semblance of gaiety. They still danced in the wine gardens at the city's edge and they let us sing the choruses in English when they played a Strauss waltz, and everybody drank the new wine (which was very bad, by the way), and we all went home on a crowded street car, laughing and singing still. A few weeks later Hitler came.

MONARCHY

NOW WE THINK that the trouble with Austria is that it lacks democracy. The Archduke Otto no doubt disagrees with us. I don't know what he thinks, never having seen him up to now, but I assume that he hopes one day to mount again the throne of his fathers and re-establish monarchy in the old empire. We don't like the sound of that, for though we have a monarchy it is not like that of the Hapsburgs. It is a democratic monarchy and provides the most democratic system known in the world.

Otto can hardly intend to give his old empire such a system as ours and for that reason we are a little shy of the young man. But what we overlook is that the Austrians don't want democracy, have never seen it, cannot understand it and probably would not let it live. After the Hapsburgs came chaos, then attempted Communism, then the dictatorship of Dollfuss, whom Hitler murdered in his office and allowed to bleed to death on a couch. Then came Hitler. Austria never knew democracy and wouldn't know today how to make it work.

This does not mean that Austria could not learn, but it does mean that you can't perfect the practice of democracy easily. We have been learning it since 1215 A.D., when its first faint beginnings appeared at Runnymede. We haven't learned it very well yet. It has worked better than any other system, given us a better life than most, but it still is not perfect. If you doubt that, watch our current provincial election. Many Austrians thus might prefer their old kingship to our democracy, because they are afraid of change and remember, as all men do, only the good times, the glitter at Schoenbrunn, the dancing in the streets and the love-making.

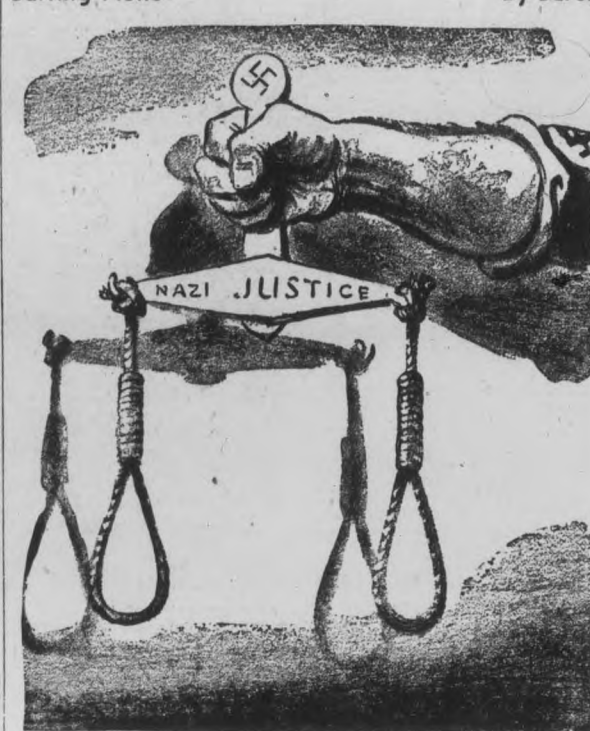

It is probable that world-wide democracy will not spring suddenly out of the war. We can make the world safe for the existing democracies but we cannot expect all peoples to achieve overnight the system which we have not perfected in 700 years. Especially if they don't want to. After Hitler, kings like Otto won't look so bad to the most confirmed democrat, provided the people at home want them back again, which is by no means certain.

THE LESSON

THE LESSON from all this is clear. If we want the world to adopt the democratic system, if it is the true hope of the future, which I believe it is, we cannot simply force it upon people. We can no more command a people to become democratic than we can command a young girl to become beautiful or a young man to become six feet tall. These things come about gradually, over a long period. We can only launch the idea upon the world and let the world grasp it. Best of all, we can make our own democracy work, which is the business and task of every individual citizen.

If we make it work properly we needn't worry about Austria, or even the more backward nations. They will all want to imitate us and receive our rewards. But looking at us in the last 20 years, there is no wonder that they sigh for their old kings and the days of dancing in the streets.

THE DIE IS CAST

FATE plays strange tricks on men and nations. Of all leaders in Britain Winston Churchill was most aggressively anti-Bolshevik. It was he—more than any other one man—who was responsible for the fact that the Communists had to defend their revolutionary government on 14 separate fronts. It is the same Churchill a generation later who pilots through the Commons his alliance with the Soviet—which receives ratification without a single dissenting vote.

In one of his great rolling Shakespearean phrases Churchill has answered the most frequent criticism of his career—that he jumped back and forward from parties like an acrobat. "At all times, and through all the vicissitudes through which we are hurried I have always been true to two causes; the greatness of Britain and her empire, and the historical continuity of our island life."

It is, of course, in common sense loyalty to both those causes which led to the Russian alliance. There is no finer prose in the English language than that in which Winston Churchill (in "The Aftermath") tells how four times in four centuries Britain was the spearhead of a defensive force which thwarted attempt at world domination. Toward that end she made whatever alliance she had to make—with white or black, Protestant or Catholic, pagan, heathen or pope, but always to the same end: To preserve a world of live-and-let-live.

The Anglo-Soviet alliance is but the 1941 version of the traditional British policy which has thwarted previous bids for world mastery: But we would be blind and foolish not to realize the sweep of its implications. Win, lose, or draw it will have profound effect on the shape of things to come.

THREE POSSIBILITIES

If the Germans were able to do what they hoped to do—knock Russia clean out of Europe and the war within the next few months the consequent peril to ourselves is self-evident.

But granting, for the sake of argument, that such will not happen. There are only two other ends possible to this world struggle: A deadlock, with a truce disguised as a negotiated peace; or outright defeat of Germany.

In the first event continued cordial relations between ourselves and the Soviet would be all-important for obvious reasons.

In the second event—that is defeat of Germany—that cordiality would be no less necessary. For make no mistake about this: Whatever power or group of powers has an army which is able to dominate things in Europe when this conflict ceases is going to have most to do with the writing of the next peace ticket.

UNIQUE IN OUR LEGAL HISTORY

From Vancouver Province

Ex-Chief Justice Archer Martin was only 33 when he was first appointed judge. Incidentally, he was judge in admiralty, and in that court he maintained for 30 years the British tradition of wig as well as gown, both for himself and for the counsel who appeared before him.

It was a record that must have been rare in the annals of any nation's judiciary and it was certainly unique in the history of Canada.

And it was a good record in the quality of its achievement as well as the length of its term. Archer Martin had a good legal mind. He knew and he observed the tradition which declares that the foundation of a stable civilization is the making and the keeping of just law.

Camera Club

Lt.-Col. and Mrs. A. G. H. Dean were guests at a Civil Service Camera Club meeting. The speakers, who are well known to camera enthusiasts, told how they became interested in the hobby and how their many years of hard work eventually led to success. Lt.-Col. Dean then outlined what he considered to be the necessary attributes of a salon picture, illustrating his talk with many prints from his and Mrs. Dean's collection. These pictures, portraits and landscapes from Africa, Italy, England and Canada were outstanding examples of the art of photography, some having received many salon awards.

The speakers were introduced by J. A. Young and a sincere vote of thanks was extended by Alan MacLean.

Plans for the forthcoming exhibition were brought forward by George Alexander, president. This photographic print display, which will consist of an interesting group of 50 or more examples of the members' work, will be on exhibit in the rotunda of the Legislative Building October 6 to October 11.

The United States will have about 25,000 fewer teachers in elementary schools this year, due to a drop in numbers of pupils and consolidated schools.

'Just Call Me Duchess'

(Almost any woman would have liked to have stepped into the party shoes of Esther Van Wagoner Tufty, president of the Women's Press Club, who was "lady-in-waiting" to the Duchess of Windsor for one eventful afternoon in Washington. Mrs. Tufty has written (below) the human story of her experiences).

By ESTHER VAN WAGONER TUFTY
President, Women's National Press Club

I was hostess for an afternoon to the Duchess of Windsor. It was quite a job for a working newspaper woman who doesn't offer a dish of tea to a modern Cleopatra every day.

Not that the Duchess wasn't the most gracious of guests. But "this woman I love" presented very special entertainment problems. I had no desire to cause "an international incident" that might conceivably shake the all-important unity growing between Great Britain and the United States.

One of the pitfalls the Duchess took care of herself. Before we even met, she let it be known that she preferred to be called simply—"Duchess." Diplomatic parlors buzzed for days about her right to this and that title.

Melbourne Christerson, president of the National Press Club, and I, president of the Women's National Press Club, had for days been consulting the protocol boys at the State Department in Washington, D.C., and No. 1 adviser R. J. Herbert Shaw of the British Press Service about that very thing.

In England she would not be called Her Royal Highness—but many an American wanted the Baltimore girl, who married a king, to have full honors. So did and does her husband, His Royal Highness the Duke of Windsor. We had about decided on "Your Grace," used only by servants and in correspondence—when along came the Duchess and settled everything by saying, in effect—"Just call me Duchess."

A famous signature—the "Duchess of Windsor"—is written into the guest book of the Women's National Press Club at Washington as the club's president, Esther Van Wagoner Tufty, watches.

So I did and it made our personal conversations more natural and the presentation of the ladies of the press to her an easy pleasure.

TWO AMERICAN WOMEN—FACING AN ORDEAL

The most anxious moments I spent with the Duchess were in the official car on the way to the tea given by newspaper women in Washington, D.C. With much noise from the police escort, we drove four blocks just to get across the street to the reserved "F" Street entrance of the Willard Hotel.

Suddenly it dawned on me that the big moment was right here. I began worrying. The text of my few remarks went out of my head. The Duchess was waving and smiling to the crowds lined up five deep along the street. All of a sudden, she went quiet and tense. I turned to her—and discovered she was worrying about her remarks. From then on, we were just two American women facing an ordeal that was called a party. And both of us got through without splitting an infinitive.

That over, she walked from group to group—with frequent stops for pictures. The difficulty was to keep her moving. A circle would form. I would break it up. Once I had a good excuse. I asked her to sign in the club guest book. Later the Duke of Windsor signed. Right above their famous signatures was the scrawled name of William S. Knudsen, defence production chief, the man responsible for keeping the aid to Great Britain a-rolling.

Two guests gave the Duchess special pleasure. One was her "Aunt Bessie" (Mrs. Buchanan Merryman), who was with the Duchess in England in those days when her marriage to the former King Edward VIII was shaking the Empire. The other, a cousin, Mrs. Colston Dyer, who is often called the Blonde Duchess. They do resemble each other.

NO DIPLOMATIC APPLCART UPSET

Earlier in the afternoon, I accompanied the Duchess to the stage of the men's National Press Club to hear His Royal Highness give a fighting wartime speech. We were the only women there—but the 800 gentlemen of the press had eyes only for the Duchess. She has an elusive beauty that is magnetic. Once the Duke paused. The sea of standing newspapermen thought it was the end and hands were raised to applaud. Cameramen jumped up. Only the Duchess, sitting next to me, made no stir. (She was his wife, and had heard the speech before. She knew it was not the grand finale).

The minute the speech was over I escorted the Duchess to the party given by the newspaper women. That wasn't so simple. We traveled down some back stairs of the Press Club Building to a different floor—the famous "12th," where many a well-known Washington correspondent and columnist has his office. This I explained to the interested Duchess, who would keep these offices busy grinding out stories about her until midnight.

An elevator was held for us, flanked by Scotland Yard and local police. (It took 100 cops to get us from the curb to the door of the Willard).

After the afternoon press parties were over, Mr. Christerson and I, as presidents of our respective clubs, solemnly shook hands. It was over—we had not upset any diplomatic applecart. Nothing embarrassing had happened. Only a few gate crashers had been successful. The carefully-planned events had moved along not only smoothly but on time.

DINNER WITH DUKE AND DUCHESS

Glad to drop the role of host and hostess, we became guests that evening at an unofficial and informal dinner party at the British embassy. It was given by Sir Ronald Campbell, the charge d'affaires, in the absence of the British ambassador, Lord Halifax, who is in London.

Guest lists, since the war, are not given out by the embassy, but the prominence of the guests (except the two of us) was a compliment to the visitors. Now comes a confession. I had never dined with a former king amid the pomp of an embassy dinner, but I knew that a guest doesn't leave a party before royalty. But I did. I had to write this story.

The dessert came (it looked good). My dinner companion, who had been watching the time for me, said, "You'll have to go." The word was sent down the table. I made my goodbyes to the Duchess (she knew that this might happen) and, bless me, the Duke of Windsor arose and escorted me to the door.

Nurses' Home Price Listed at $75,000

Price of the Nurses' Home extension at St. Joseph's Hospital was set at $75,000 in a permit issued by the city building inspector's department Wednesday. The structure, No. 690 Rupert Street, will be built by A. Sullivan, contractor, on plans drawn by H. Whittaker, provincial architect.

That was the largest project of a busy day at the city office. Earlier Mrs. M. Coultas received a permit for $1,000 alterations and renovations to the structure at 252 Douglas Street, which will be converted into a three-room single family home.

Another permit was granted for a $4,500 eight-room duplex at 1110-1112 May Street, and A. R. Frewing took out another for $1,000 additional rooms for the Venture Apartments at 739 Pandora Avenue. Thursday John Davies was given a permit for $1,500 alterations to the home at 822 Catherine Street.

Italy Whips Up Love for Nazis

ROME (AP)—Fascists seek to contradict reports Italians dislike their German allies.

Cultural changes between the two nations to make their peoples better acquainted were the order of the day after Mussolini gave the signal for pro-German demonstrations by attending the formal opening of the Italo-German Association's 1941-42 year in Rome.

Alessandro Pavolini, Italian minister of culture, told the meeting reports of friction between Italians and Germans were "Anglo-American lies."

The minister declared Italian esteem was growing for "the German fellow-fighter—for soldier or sailor and for the Germany of Hitler."

A German military band arrived at Milan for a tour of Italian cities and a ballet corps of the Rome opera began a tour of German cities at Vienna.

PUBLISHER SEES TOURIST INFLUX

Victoria may be the scene of an influx of tourists this winter in the opinion of Allan Holmes, publisher of the Galt Reporter.

Mr. Holmes is holidaying in Victoria with his wife this week. "Large numbers of eastern Canadians used to spend their winters in California and Florida," Mr. Holmes said, "but with a tightening of restrictions on travel to the United States, and the closing of Bermuda and Nassau to Canadian tourists, Victoria is the obvious place to provide for these people."

Mr. Holmes is vacationing in Victoria for the first time, having usually gone to California. His first impression of Victoria was that it could adequately provide for the demands of winter tourists.

Commenting on the effect of the war on his home city, Mr. Holmes said that it is right in the centre of a rich manufacturing area and has received many war contracts. Light metal, machine tools and textiles are the main industries.

Besides contributing machinery and clothes to the forces, Galt has been a centre for the training of 1,000 aero-mechanics, Mr. Holmes said.

JAPS WRECK MISSION

CHUNGKING (AP)—The American Southern Baptist Mission at Hsiao-kwan, provincial capital of Kwangtung province, was wrecked September 29 during a Japanese air raid and the son of an American missionary was killed, the Chinese central news agency said today. Neither the name of the American missionary nor his son was given.

An American engineer constructing an electric plant in the Belgian Congo had to improvise substitutes for missing dowel pins—and the steel pins turned up later as nose ornaments of African tribesmen.

PRESBYTERIAN Y.P.S. TO MEET

Delegates from Presbyterian Young People's Societies in B.C. will hold their second annual convention in this city over the Thanksgiving Day week-end.

The provincial executive, headed by Gordon Winter of St. Andrew's Y.P.S., Victoria, has been busy for many months arranging the program. One hundred young people are expected to register. Sessions will be held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

The convention will open October 12, when a Communion service will be conducted at 10 by Rev. J. L. W. McLean, pastor of St. Andrew's, following which the delegates will attend St. Andrew's, St. Paul's, the Gorge and Chinese Presbyterian Churches to take part in the morning services. Sunday afternoon the young people will be taken on a tour which promises to be of great interest. At 7:30 a special church service will be conducted at St. Andrew's Church, with all delegates in attendance. A fellowship gathering in the lecture room will follow.

Monday's program will open with a devotional service at 9 conducted by Earl Patterson of Vancouver. Later, discussion groups will be formed under the following leaders: Worship service, Rev. T. H. McAllister; leadership training, Miss Isabel Scott; fellowship, Mrs. J. L. W. McLean.

From 2 until 5 the annual business meeting will be held. Officers for next term will be elected and installed by Rev. H. Lennox of Vancouver. Rev. J. L. W. McLean will give the address, based on the convention theme, "Jesus Only."

Monday at 5:30 a banquet will be held in the church lecture room, convened by Misses Hazel Kennedy and Margaret Stewart of Victoria, after which the delegates will depart for their respective homes. Any person desiring information is asked to phone Miss Ethel Wilson, G 1584.

STRANGE PARTIES SEEK SUPPORT

Candidates running in the provincial general election have added some new nomenclature to the political life of the province which in the last 20 years has produced many a strange sect and idea.

Outside of the three main parties there are several people running on Independent, Labor and Socialist tickets, which are not unusual.

Probably the classic of all is the "Victory Without Debt Party." That is the way George Henry Broughton, a Vancouver civil engineer, describes his views on his official nomination papers. How it is to be achieved apparently will be explained during the campaign. He is running in Vancouver Centre.

Mrs. Catherine Emily Ling, Vancouver housewife, filed at the last minute in Point Grey under the name of the Emancipation Party.

In Burnaby Archibald Emmanuel Hardy, retired, stated his political affiliation as the Religious Political Brotherhood.

National Viewpoint Is Urged Upon Institutes

An appeal to institute members to cultivate the national viewpoint and not to confine their interests solely to their own small groups was made by Mrs. B. F. Gummow of Peachland, president of the provincial W.I. board, at Thursday night's session of the South Vancouver Island district conference.

Mrs. Gummow, who attended the Federated W.I. conference in Fredericton, N.B., this summer and more recently has been at a conference of the North Vancouver Island district, reviewed her impressions of the national gathering. She outlined the workings of the various committees and praised the vast amount of war work being done by the rural women throughout Canada. British Columbia's valuable contribution included many splendid quilts made by the institute women from B.C. wool and sent, together with quantities of jam and preserves, to Great Britain.

WOMEN AS CITIZENS

The speaker touched upon the privileges and responsibilities of citizenship, quoting a professor who, in a recent address, had expressed disappointment that there had not been a greater purification of public life since women got the vote. Such a statement constituted a challenge to the women, said Mrs. Gummow, and she urged institute members to take the lead in demanding higher ideals in public life. Only in this way would the institutes attain the goal for which they had always striven—the raising of the standard of community life, she concluded.

The session was held in the Victoria Women's Institute rooms, and on behalf of the audience Mrs. William Peden thanked Mrs. Gummow for her address and Mrs. E. S. Blair presented the guest speaker with a sheaf of antirrhinums.

Victoria Women at Work in London

LONDON (CP)—Two of the busiest Canadian women in London took a few minutes off today to tell W. L. MacTavish of Vancouver and Fraser Gerrie of Edmonton, members of the visiting Canadian editors' party, about their work at British Columbia House.

This building is a beehive of activity, where troops from the Pacific coast of Canada can ask for anything from a cigarette to a pretty brunette—and get it.

The visiting editors were welcomed to the big B.C. House near Piccadilly Circus by W. A. McAdam, acting agent-general, who conducted them on a tour of the building and introduced them to Mrs. Josephine Godman of Esquimalt, whose job it is to see the soldiers get what they want in the way of entertainment while on leave, and Mrs. Ona Anderson of Victoria, who runs the canteen.

TEACHES DANCING

Mrs. Godman, who conducts the recreation room, operates the amusement bureau and finds time to top that by running a dancing class for clumsy soldiers, told the visiting editors she had been able to fill almost every request the soldiers made "even to providing a pretty brunette for a soldier who was seeking a companion to go out dancing."

"Another soldier wanted to visit H. G. Wells," she said. "I was able to arrange that, too, and he had a drink with Mr. Wells as well as a pleasant chat."

Mrs. Anderson, wearing a trim green smock covered with badges of all kinds of regiments, showed Mr. MacTavish and Mr. Gerrie around the canteen where 5,000 meals which her soldier-clients call the "best in London" are served each week.

Before leaving the visitors met Lady Norrett, who supervises operations on this side of the B.C. overseas tobacco fund. They were surprised to learn that last month Lady Norrett's helpers packed, addressed and dispatched 1,450,000 Canadian cigarettes and more than 650 pounds of tobacco to B.C. troops in England.

"That's certainly a lot of smoke," Mr. Gerrie commented.

Nurses in Middle East Helped By 'Y'

Extension of Y.W.C.A. war services to nursing sisters in the Middle East is reported in a letter received by the National Council Y.W.C.A., Toronto, from Miss Jean Begg, Y.W.C.A. worker at Ismailia.

Faced with many difficulties in the way of housing, water supply and transportation, the "Y" workers are taking advantage of every opportunity to establish rest centres and recreation clubs for nurses on duty with the desert forces. Latest centre to be established is located on a house boat on the Nile, near Cairo. The boat has been loaned to the Y.W.C.A. by H. S. Farajallah and is being reconditioned and furnished by the "Y." According to Miss Begg there is an urgent need for rest centres at Tel-Aviv, Alexandria and Haifa.

At Jerusalem a daily club centre has been established and in Ismailia the Y.W.C.A. quarters have been extended to include a lounge, dining-room and bedrooms for about 30 guests. "This club is the centre for a large district, where more than 10 nursing units are working," the report states.

In the desert some five miles from Ismailia the "Y" has established an "Oasis Rest Centre."

The report states: "After overcoming flies, lack of water and many other difficulties, we have developed quite a homelike place which is the envy of all. We have been asked by the area commander to make an annex for officers, and the nursing sisters have asked us to include another annex for the ranks, where they may enjoy themselves in their few hours off duty. A 1930 two-seater car is our only means of getting in and out of the desert to Ismailia for marketing."

At Port Said, where refugees as well as nursing sisters are constantly seeking a resting place, the Y.W.C.A. is establishing another centre.

Workers for the Y.W.C.A. in the Middle East come from many parts of the Empire, including New Zealand, Australia and Ceylon. The work is financed for the most part by the British "Y" War Service Fund, to which the Canadian Y.W.C.A. is lending active support through the sale of British buttons, teas, bazaars and other money-raising schemes.

The first meeting of the Montevideo P.T.A. study group was held at the home of Mrs. P. H. DeMille, 888 Victoria Avenue, Monday, when Mrs. W. R. Gunn was elected study group convener. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Gunn, 1251 Victoria Avenue, Monday evening, October 6.

R. Kelly of Ocean Falls. The wedding will take place quietly in Vancouver October 15. The couple will reside in Comox, where the groom is a member of the teaching staff.

Mrs. Thos. M. Knox was hostess at the tea hour this afternoon at her home on Rockland Avenue to about 25 guests. The affair was arranged in honor of Miss Mary Ogilvie and Major Keith MacDougall, who are to be married in the near future. The reception rooms were lovely with masses of autumn flowers, and in the dining-room the tea table was arranged in the bridal motif with all white flowers and lighted white tapers in silver candelabra.

Mrs. D. M. Doherty and Mr. Ronald Brown, both of Vancouver, who came to Victoria for the Mitchell-Horton wedding and who have been the guests of Mrs. A. K. Mitchell, Terrace Avenue, returned to the mainland Thursday. Mrs. John Wolferstan of Ottawa, who has also been the guest of Mrs. Mitchell, also left yesterday for her home in the east. Miss Margaret Dodd of Revelstoke, another visitor in Victoria for the wedding, is the guest of Mrs. W. R. Seattle, Linden Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson of North Dairy Road, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. Stewart Wilson, 2666 Topp Avenue. The venerable couple were married at the bride's home, Elm House, Stranraer, Scotland, September 30, 1891, and came to Canada in 1908, making their home here for the last 10 years. At the family reunion Tuesday in addition to their son were their daughter, three granddaughters and one grandson. Their other son, Alex, made the supreme sacrifice in France in 1917. Messages of congratulations, flowers and gifts were received by Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, together with an appropriate presentation from the family. WeddingsCARPENTER—PEDDLE

In a setting of white chrysanthemums, pink and white gladioli and smilax, the wedding of Florence Janet, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter V. Peddle, "Prestwood Brae," Union Avenue, to Mr. Jack Leonard Carpenter, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Carpenter, Douglas Street, was solemnized by Rev. Hugh McLeod at First United Church Thursday evening at 8.30. Mrs. M. Carver sang "Still As the Night," while the bridal party were signing the register, accompanied at the organ by Mr. G. H. Peaker, who played the wedding music.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a floor-length frock of turquoise blue chiffon over taffeta, with matching finger-tip veil hung from a coronet. Her shower bouquet was of pink rosebuds, white carnations and swainsonia.

Mrs. Harvey Patterson, sister of the bride, was matron of honor in a floor-length gown of gold chiffon over taffeta, with matching doll's hat and arm bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums. Miss Jenny Drever, a cousin, was bridesmaid, her floor-length gown being of pink chiffon over taffeta, with doll hat to match, and an arm bouquet of pink chrysanthemums. Mr. Charles Carpenter supported his brother, and Messrs. Raymond Porter and Victor Peddle ushered the guests to pews marked with nosegays of flowers tied with white ribbons.

Many guests were welcomed later at "Prestwood Brae," the rooms being decorated with pink and white chrysanthemums and Baby Royal dahlias. Mrs. Peddle received in a Lido blue dress of sheer, with lace top, a picture hat of Lido blue, assisted by Mrs. Carpenter, mother of the groom, in a jacket dress of air force blue sheer, with wide-brimmed hat to match. Both wore corsage bouquets of pink roses and white heather. The supper table was covered with a lace cloth and centred with the three-tiered wedding cake, and lighted white tapers in silver holders. Mr. T. Currie proposed the toast to the bride.

Among the many gifts were a coffee table and silver rose bowl from the former associates of the bride at David Spencer Ltd., and an occasional chair from the co-workers of the groom at Yarrow's Ltd.

For the honeymoon trip to Vancouver, the bride wore a fitted royal blue coat over a wine dress with matching accessories. They will reside on their return at their new home on Prestwood Drive.

GONNASON—NEUMAN

A popular Saanich teacher was the bride at a pretty ceremony in Grace Lutheran Church, Thursday, at 8.30 o'clock, when Rev. T. A. Jansen united in marriage, Kathleen Marie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Neuman, Saanich Road, and Pte. Sgt. Elroy Carl Gonnason, R.C. A.F., of Brandon, Man., eldest son of Mrs. Alice M. Gonnason, 1741 Lee Avenue, Victoria, and the late Mr. R. C. Gonnason.

White gladioli and lighted white tapers in brass candlesticks were arranged on the altar, and pink and white chrysanthemums were used in decoration of the church. Miss Amy Anderson played the wedding music, and during the signing of the register Mr. Allan Anderson sang "Because."

Mr. Neuman gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a smart afternoon frock of dusty rose, with turban of a deeper shade, and black accessories, her corsage being of gardenias.

Miss Bernice Bastian, Pincher Creek, Alta., was her cousin's bridesmaid, wearing a soldier blue dress with a navy blue hat and accessories, and a spray of pink roses. The bridegroom was supported by his brother, Mr. Harold Gonnason, and Mr. Hugh Neuman, brother of the bride, and Sgt. Jack Smirl, R.C.A. A.F., were ushers.

At a small reception at the home of the bride's parents, the guests were welcomed by Mrs. Neuman in an overseas blue dress with navy blue accessories, assisted by Mrs. Gonnason in a midnight blue ensemble, and both wore corsage bouquets of pink carnations. Pink flowers predominated in the decorations of the rooms, and on the bride's table the wedding cake was complemented by pink and white carnations and pink candles in crystal holders.

For the honeymoon on the mainland, the bride donned a fur coat, the gift of the bridegroom, over her wedding ensemble. Pte. Sgt. and Mrs. Gonnason will make their home at Brandon, Man.

The Navy League Chapter, I.O. D.E., will hold a knitting meeting Monday at 2.30 at Mrs. T. McGimpsey's, 403 Government Street.

The Schubert Club held a birthday social Monday evening at the home of Mrs. A. W. Whittingham, Cavendish Avenue. The celebration was in commemoration of the inauguration of this ladies' choral group in September, 1923, by conductor Frederick King. The evening was spent in games. Prizes were won by Mrs. Nora Kermod, Miss Hazel Clyde and Miss Rhoda Walton.

Mr. King and Mrs. Welsh, one of the first presidents, who is still a member, shared in the honors of cutting the decorated birthday cake. Mr. King spoke highly of the choir, commenting on the pleasure derived from such work and the co-operation received by him from the membership. Since its inauguration the club has made 93 public appearances, including 48 concerts and recitals, 12 concerts for churches, 6 recitals in aid of Sunshine Inn, 11 twilight recitals and 16 ventures in festivals.

St. Louis College Fair Is Success

Business was brisk at all the gaily-decorated stalls at the Country Fair held by the Victoria Subdivision of the Catholic Women's League at St. Louis College Thursday.

Bishop John C. Cody, who recently returned from the east, formally opened the fête and told his interested audience that while in New York he had visited the Christian Brothers' Seminary and met several former pupils of the college. Rev. Brother English reminded the assembled parents and friends of the record the pupils of the school were making in sports, and of the boys' camp at Kuper Island, which 65 Victoria boys attended during the summer.

Mrs. E. Hornsby, president of the subdivision, convened the fair, and, with Mrs. Blair Reid, had charge of the contests. Games were in charge of members of the college teaching staff.

The stall of the Esquimalt branch was in charge of Mrs. O'Leary; "hot-dogs," a popular feature, were in charge of Mrs. H. Moonen, and the candy stall, managed by the junior branch, was in charge of Miss Agnes Grant. Mrs. J. O'Connell had the fruit and vegetable stall, assisted by Mesdames Webb, Fitzgerald and Heather; Mrs. C. Rivers convened the tea arrangements, and Mrs. Rule had charge of the dinner, assisted by Mrs. M. Morry and Mrs. Hunter. Mrs. J. L. Thompson took charge of the novelty stall.

INFANTRY UNITS BEING CONVERTED

LONDON (CP)—Great Britain will speed up the conversion of infantry units into armored divisions in an effort to increase the striking power of her army without draining man-power from war industries, informed quarters said today.

The conversion will proceed as rapidly as tanks and other equipment become available, these quarters declared.

An unofficial source said the government long ago had determined the limit of man-power obtainable by the army in the United Kingdom and asserted "this had now been reached."

Increased mechanization has caused the army to absorb many men with technical training, which in turn has brought protest from the press and some labor leaders that the output of guns and tanks had been handicapped.

$45,000 Fight Offer

SUMMIT, N.J. (AP)—Freddie (Red) Cochrane, world welter-weight boxing champion, said yesterday a British syndicate had offered him £10,000 ($45,000) to defend his crown against Ernie Roderick, British titleholder, in London, England.

Ted Broadbribb, English promoter and spokesman for the champ, said the purse would be tax free and asked that a date be fixed for December.

The match would be a Royal Air Force benefit.

Says Hitler Plans Gas Attack on Britain

ARCHDUKE OTTO

Although he believes Hitler is attacking Russia in preparation for the invasion of Britain, and although he says Germany has recently built three plants to produce gas to use on the British, Archduke Francis Joseph Otto of Austria firmly believes the Allies will be successful in defeating Germany.

Speaking before the Rotary Club yesterday, the young Archduke, who is considered one of the best-informed persons in the world on central European affairs, said the Czech leaders recently murdered by the Nazis were perhaps the greatest heroes of the war and such leaders would rise again to free their country.

"The Nazi program is not only an imperialistic attempt at world domination but a world revolution," Archduke Otto said. "It is a revolution which would destroy everything our civilization stands for."

In Nazi Germany the individual was only a small part of a machine, he said. Religion and liberty did not exist. On the other hand, allied society was based on principles of justice grounded on morality, and each person was protected against the government.

"We must fight this conception of life which is separated from us by an abyss," he said. "The two cannot exist together. The world is too small."

"We can only fight, fight to the utmost so that our civilization may survive," the Archduke said.

PRINCIPLES CORRECT

In considering the necessary postwar organization to maintain peace, Archduke Otto said that, while the League of Nations was an utter failure, the principles on which it was based were correct. He said the failure was the result of weak individuals rather than weak ideals.

He pointed to the example of the Danubian states. "Before the last war," he said, "Austria-Hungary was a strong country of 50,000,000 people. The peace treaty disrupted its unity, divided it into five states. With no understanding, these small states quarreled even up to the time when Hitler invaded them."

The economy of the small states was in continual crisis, he said. It was no coincidence that the depression followed the fall of the largest bank in Austria.

Canada 'Congealed'

TORONTO (CP)—Beginning a two-month tour of eastern Canada and Newfoundland, Rt. Rev. J. B. Skene of Vancouver, moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, stopped in Toronto today and said Canadian people are "congealed with complacency."

This complacency, he said, has spread into all walks of life, and "now is creeping into Canada's church life."

"We need a revival of interest in moral and spiritual values, and if we don't bring that about we're sunk."

BADMINTON OPENING

R.C.A.F. Band To Be Heard

OTTAWA (CP)—The Ottawa Journal says it learned the R.C.A.F. band at Winnipeg will broadcast a weekly program on the western network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, following out Air Minister Power's "where and when" dictum.

Recently, when questioned about reported objections of the American Federation of Musicians to the R.C.A.F. band playing on the radio, Maj. Power said the band would play "when and where" it pleased.

The Journal said a CBC official, in disclosing the R.C.A.F. band at Winnipeg would play on the corporation's western network, had added any objections which might be made by the Toronto local of the American Federation of Musicians would be referred directly to Maj. Power. Music of the R.C.A.F. Winnipeg band will be carried on CBC's western network exclusively for recruiting purposes, the paper added.

(In Toronto the CBC said the R.C.A.F. band is being heard every second Monday on a program from Winnipeg at 8 p.m., P.S.T. The series started September 29.)

The Journal said Maj. Power laid down his "where and when" ruling after the air force central band played with the "kind permission of the union (American Federation of Musicians)" at the Royal York Hotel last spring in Toronto.

"This permission" was a union "concession" for up to 30 minutes before the program was to have started the federation's Canadian affiliate had threatened to call out on strike all the hotel cooks, waiters, busboys and other organized labor at the Royal York if the airmen played," said the paper.

"Union president Walter Murdoch, over the telephone from Chicago, declared he had never 'threatened' the CBC against broadcasting air force music," the Journal said. "He said he merely had 'protested' to Mr. Power."

Letters to the Editor

COSTLY WINTER FOR SAWDUST USERS

Having consulted the oracles, the astrological aspects, the Indian signs and the fuel dealers, I am now able to inform all of those unfortunate and misguided individuals who burn sawdust for fuel that they are in for a long, hard and expensive winter.

The price of sawdust is $5 a unit, sacked. According to forestry experts a unit should contain 200 cubic feet, but as this is only a mythical measurement, without any legal or official status, it fluctuates with the moon, ebbs and flows like the tide. A sack may be one-third to one-half full and a unit in bulk just as small as it can be made without straining the patience of the purchaser to the breaking point.

The consumer pays more and more for less and less, and unless he wants this state of affairs to continue indefinitely, he had better write a letter to the city solicitor, protest strongly against this wholesale robbery, and strengthen the efforts of the solicitor to get the Dominion to include sawdust in the Weights and Measures Act, and fix a definite standard of measurement. The matter will be brought up at the meeting of the Union of Municipalities in September, and concerted action on the part of consumers will bring results.

POLITICAL RESPONSIBILITY

When people attack the Liberal government for not preparing for the war, and for being slow in their war effort, they should remember that the democratic government can only do what the people want, and woe betide it if it goes against the people's wishes or beyond their approval.

War preparation was the one thing Canadians would not tolerate from any government. We were hopelessly peace loving and refused to be frightened. Now the government that the very people of this country sent back to serve them again has had to start from the beginning to cope with a well-trained and fully equipped enemy.

Mr. Mackenzie King's government can do just what we permit, no more, and it is no use withholding money and at the same time berating the Liberal party. Any reform we want, and any effort, can be made by the Liberal party just as well as by any other. We have given them the authority to rule and make laws.

If we, the ordinary voters, follow up our candidates and later our members, by giving them our support and our interest after they are sent up to represent us, we could have any reform we desired. Most people vote in after their member and leave him alone after that to contend with the opposition.

Rarely do the majority who put in a Liberal member bother to give him their interest or support after the election. The Liberal party seldom lets down the public but the public does let it down by indifference. Supported by pressure from constituents, Liberal members could have done so much.

I have had ample opportunity to see the ideals of the Liberals. My own father first studied law in Lloyd George's office in North Wales. In Canada I worked with Liberal's on the Edmonton Bulletin and that progressive Canadian paper, the Winnipeg Free Press. Associated with these I saw that Canadians had vision and broad, truly liberal policies suited to a new and rather cosmopolitan land.

POLIO

Now that schools are opening and cases of infantile paralysis have been reported already in Esquimalt, what protection can our children be given against the disease when all gathered together in one schoolroom? One by one I saw children go down in Winnipeg during one of the earlier epidemics in that city. Do we have to expose their bodies to a terrible sickness so often crippling or fatal, for the disproportionate value of a few weeks' teaching? How shall we justify ourselves in forcing other individuals to take a chance with this awful disease, having no say of their own in the matter? Will health authorities forbid the gathering of children in time to check this illness? What can mothers do to safeguard them?

BETH MENZIES.

WHAT PRICE A CUP OF TEA?

I think it would be only fair if the restaurant keepers who raised the price of a pot of tea at counters should issue a statement why it was necessary to raise the price from a nickel to a dime—100 per cent.

I suggest that people should be able to get a cup of tea, say for 6 cents. A raise of 100 per cent is too much.

come from?" In deciding whether we could or could not afford a particular service the question would be "Can we afford to use our man-power for that purpose or is there something else more necessary, for which the labor should be expended?"

The necessary money should be issued by the government, in the proper quantities, as a numerical record of work performed.

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

HOCKEY is really starting to make news in the Pacific northwest these days. The Pacific coast pro league has done its official folding-up act with the announcement by Guy Patrick that he will combine his former Vancouver Lions with the Tulsa outfit. Following right on the heels of Patrick's statement is one that Tip O'Neill and Percy Jackson, former Lions, have applied to the amateur hockey moguls for reinstatement so that they can turn out with the Vancouver Shipyards entry in the new Pacific Coast Amateur Hockey Association.

Vancouver club has already held its opening practice with O'Neill slated to act as playing manager of the squad. Others out with the Shipyards included: Casey Jones, Red Beattie, former N.H.L. puckster; the Peters brothers from Trail; Art Schuman, who skated around Europe in prewar days; Bill Neilson of New Westminster Cubs; McGillivray of Allenby, B.C., and several others. Should the Shipyards get O'Neill and Jackson reinstated it will give them two sweet hockey players and the nucleus of a smart club.

Officials of the Victoria team are letting no grass grow under their feet in lining up the local entry for the league. Ivan Temple stated he will have some real "classy material" on hand when the new arena is ready to welcome the boys for their first practice. At the present time it is expected to have the rink ready about November 1.

There is one hockey manager in Victoria whose least worry is players. Attending a meeting of the Services League the other night we were informed by the Army officials they have 80 players ready to try out for the two teams the regiments will enter in the circuit. "Of course, we will have quite a bit of weeding out to do but it certainly gives us plenty to work with," one official remarked. The Services League promises a carload of action for the hockey followers. The army, navy and air force lads will put on doubleheaders every Monday night.

There will be so many British Columbia-owned thoroughbreds racing on California tracks and at Agua Caliente this winter the boys will be able to gather around and declare an old-home week. Camp Spur, Eagle Crest, Drift On and Lee Somers, smart little stable of Al and Les Torey, is bedded down at Caliente. At the recent Willows meeting this four-some captured 11 races. South of the border the horses will be handled by George Lamb. Another horse at the Mexican track is Hi Ginny, popular B.C.-bred recently sold by Dr. Frank Young to Dave Elander for $500.

At the Tanforan track, which opened the meeting yesterday, is the classy string of the Diamond Stable under Les Robertson. This group is headed by Franworth, handicap champion on mainland tracks this season. From Nainaimo comes word that "Frank Beban is all set to ship Sahara Chief and Flying Heir to Tanforan in charge of Wally Dunn and Tommy Halkett. With the popular Clay Puett starting at Tanforan the British Columbia boys will be right at home.

When the big winter season opens at Santa Anita on hand will be Over Drive and Palmera T., turf aces of George Irvine, British Columbia soda pop mogul. Irvine recently purchased the palatial mainland racing set-up of Neil McQueen, including barns, private training track and spacious paddocks, and will put his two stars back into training. They will be shipped in about three weeks to Santa Anita, where Irvine hopes to pull down a lot of rich purse money.

Delaney, Wenstob Want Return Bout

VANCOUVER (CP)—Both Al Delaney, who successfully defended his Canadian heavyweight boxing title against Eddie Wenstob in a 12-round bout here Wednesday night, and the former Viking, Alta., battler, last night expressed hope that they would have a return engagement here some time before October 15.

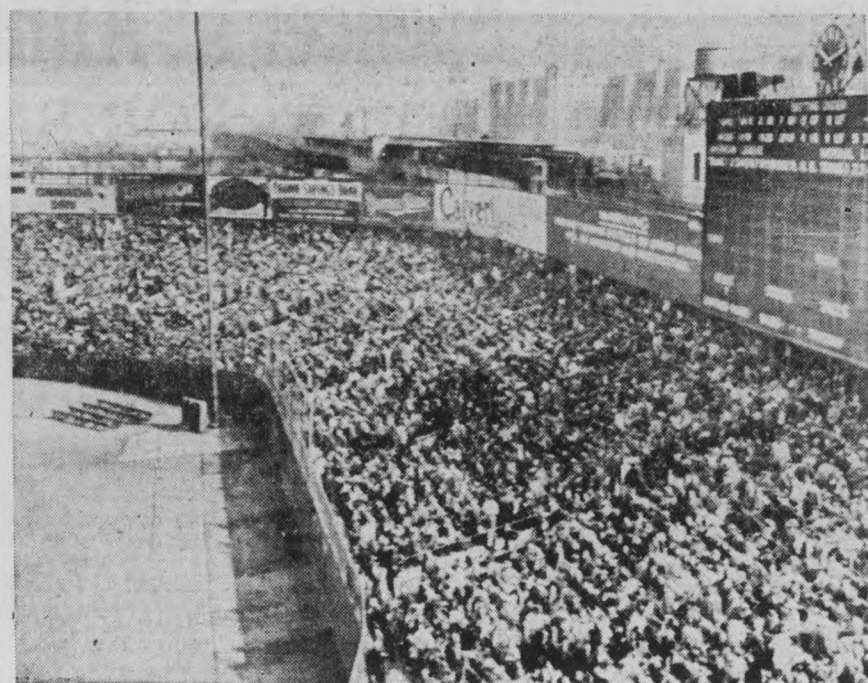

"I will know by Friday afternoon," Pat Drouillard, Delaney's manager said. "Al has another fight in Toronto on October 14 if we don't take this one. We don't know who he will fight there but it will be one of Al Weil's boys from Chicago."

He said Delaney was willing to meet Wenstob again, but that "it doesn't really make any difference to him."

Wenstob said he was anxious to get another chance at the champion. He said he lost Wednesday night's close decision because he was overtrained, and because of his lack of sparring practice.

Joe McIntyre, Wenstob's manager, said his fighter "was robbed, in more ways than one." "When we signed the contract we were assured that Delaney would weigh 185 or less," he said. "He was 199 to Eddie's 180."

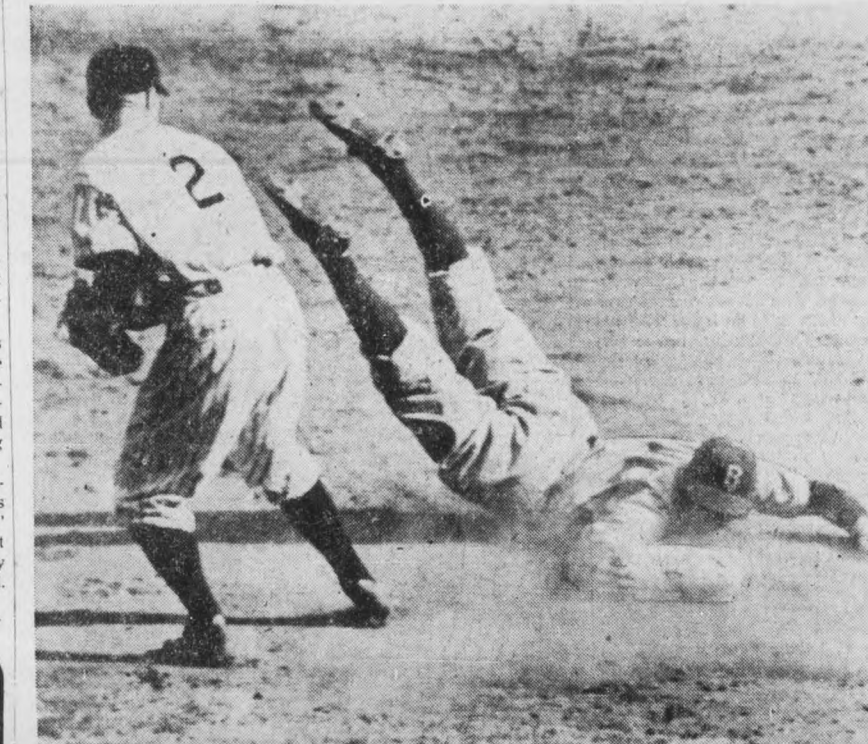

Highlights of First Ball Game

As the most hectic world series in history broke loose on New York, nearly 70,000 fans jammed all entrances to the Yankee Stadium and filled the entire bleachers above, early in the morning as shown by clock over scoreboard.

Credit for first run of the world series went to Yankee 2nd baseman Joe Gordon for his home run which was what the American League champs needed to beat the Dodgers, 3 to 2. Here's Gordon crossing the plate as Phil Rizzuto, Yankee shortstop, greets him. At left, Brooklyn catcher Mickey Owen; background, Yankee batboy; right, umpire W. A. McGowan.

Guy Patrick Speaks

Will Hold Players

VANCOUVER — Guy Patrick, owner-manager of the one-time Vancouver Lions, returned home from Tulsa Wednesday with a new job, high hopes and a broken foot.

The new job is manager of the Tulsa Oilers of the revamped American Association, the hopes are for a worryless season in that masterpiece of modern hockey architecture, the Tulsa Arena, and the cast and crutches came from stepping into a crack in the sidewalk.

Patrick has no intention of letting any of his shiny chattels go the amateur way. He has already sold Lou Labovitch to New Haven and Owen Lennon to St. Paul. That leaves him with Tip O'Neill, Percy Jackson, Dave Desreux, Bill Hutton, Bus Wood, Jack Riley, Lude Palm and Bud Gourlie. If any of these boys don't want to go to Tulsa, that's their business, intimates Patrick; if they want to get their amateur standing and play commercial hockey, that's his business. And business is poor, thank you. As a matter of fact, the boys will stick with the Lions, according to Guy, which puts Tip O'Neill on the spot as he is slated for the management of the Shipbuilders' amateur club here.

The Tulsa Otter-Lions have until November 7 to organize, however, as that is the date of the first game in St. Louis.

CANCEL CRICKET

The scheduled cricket match between the Royal Air Force and the combined Five C's and Albions, tomorrow at Beacon Hill Park, has been canceled. Officials announced that due to the late season of the season the cricketers have called a halt to play.

LES PATRICK ON WAY TO WINNIPEG

NEW YORK (CP)—Lester Patrick, manager of New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, left for Winnipeg Thursday night to open his annual school for amateurs Monday.

He said he expects more than 60 youngsters to try for berths with New York Rangers and Regina Rangers, his senior amateur farm clubs.

After a week of the school, the professionals will report for their first workout October 13.

Patrick said that four vacancies on the professional Rangers have to be filled and both the senior amateur teams rebuilt.

WESTS PRACTICE

A practice of the Victoria West soccer team will be held on Sunday afternoon at 2 at the Central Park.

Rain Forces Yanks and Dodgers Into Idleness

Clubs Will Resume Play Tomorrow

EBBETS FIELD, BROOKLYN (AP)—The third world series baseball game between the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers was postponed today by Commissioner Kenesaw Landis after a steady rain had left the field unplayable.

After inspecting the sodden field twice, the commissioner called all the newspapermen together under the grandstand and announced: "Gentlemen, I have made my decision. The game's off."

Before deciding finally, he called both the weather bureau and the airport and was told there was no chance that the sun would come out later in the day, and that it probably would go right on raining.

The clubs will meet in the third game here tomorrow providing the weather breaks.

There was no doubt in anyone's mind that this was to be a grimly fought world series, after all. The whole picture changed abruptly yesterday when Whitlow Wyatt, warming slowly to his task, stood the slugging Yankees on their collective noggins for the last five innings and pitched the scrapping Dodgers to a 3 to 2 victory in Yankee Stadium, squaring the series.

Until Wyatt came through for the National League champions, things had looked mighty dark for them. But Wyatt's brilliant performance changed all that. It's going to be a dinger before it's finished—maybe seven games, the limit.

Only one thing is certain about tomorrow's contest, or about the next three, for that matter. The crowd is going to look small after the two huge gatherings in the stadium the last two days where more than 68,000 saw the opener and 66,248 turned out yesterday, only about 34,000 can be sandwiched into the Dodgers' Emporium.

While Wyatt's superlative pitching in the pinches stood out in yesterday's game, it was almost equally easy to spot the Yankee who did the most to make the Dodger victory possible. It was little Phil Rizzuto, the freshman shortstop, who twice at crucial moments was caught far out of position and saw hits go bouncing through where he should have been.

RAIN HALTS GAME

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Rain, falling in a steady downpour, forced postponement last night of the sixth game of the little world baseball series between Columbus Red Birds of the American Association and Montreal Royals of the International League.

The Red Birds are leading three games to two.

Series Action Just Starting

NEW YORK (AP)—The world series starts today . . . except for the cash involved, you can toss out those two games at the Yankee Stadium. The real doings that everybody has been looking forward to are just getting under way now that the Dodger fans are back in their native habitat. They didn't do so badly yesterday after the Bums got going.

Stadium shadows—The Yanks don't overlook a single strategic move. They sent the subs out for early batting practice and held the regulars back to do their blasting when the Dodgers were on hand to see it.

The Brooklyn club took over a whole floor of a Manhattan hotel although they have only 25 players. The other rooms are for the families, not including Camilli's five children. Ford Frick, the National League president, wasn't a bit discouraged over the first game. "They didn't take a bad beating," he insisted, "and they were cussing themselves for their mistakes. They aren't a bit afraid of the Yanks." It took only five innings to show he was right.

Sam Bredon of the St. Louis Cards collected his Dodger press button from Frick and immediately removed the American League emblem. President Will Harridge of the American League admitted "They gave us a couple of bad moments" . . . and Joe McCarthy, with a broad grin, insisted "I'm not worried—not right now."

City Sentinel: "Everything Larry (King Midas) MacPhail and his Bums touch seems to turn to gold. The city of New York is expecting to cash in to the tune of $10,000,000 on the world series and most of it will be paid across the counters of hotels, bars and amusement centres."

Harry Saltzman Joins R.C.A.F.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Harry Saltzman, Quebec-born production manager for one of Europe's largest vaudeville theatre chains before the war and more recently a Hollywood moving picture director, hopes to visit Europe again—in the cockpit of a fighter or bomber plane.

Saltzman, 25, was sworn in at the R.C.A.F. recruiting depot here and will train as a pilot. When the Nazis invaded the Low Countries Saltzman was sent to the United States as transportation agent for 14 French government missions purchasing horses and other supplies for war. The collapse of France ended his duties with these missions and he turned to Hollywood where he was engaged as assistant to several film directors.

Soldier Wins Reprieve For Condemned Mule

NEW YORK—Gene, a 35-year-old Missouri mule, known as the mascot of the 101st Cavalry, National Guard, which was sentenced to be shot last week because he was toothless and tottering, was back at the regimental armory today, reprieved and recovering from a trip by ambulance from Fort Devens, Mass.

Col. Gilbert E. Ackerman, commanding the regiment, decreed that Gene be shot because of his age. But Lieut.-Col. Walter E. Young, who had known Gene for years, interceded and won the reprieve. The animal will be kept at the armory until spring and then sent to the Squadron C farm at Huntington, L.I.

Eugene L. Sullivan, a building superintendent of Bayside, Queens, selected Gene as the regiment's mascot while serving as a top sergeant on the Mexican border in 1916. Sullivan said he taught Gene many tricks and "would adopt him now if I could afford it."

This is the second visit Col. Mess has made to Victoria this year. He was here in January on a similar mission.

Hull Honored On 70th Birthday

By WADE WERNER

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Cordell Hull had a word to say to those who wished him well on his 70th birthday Thursday, and the word was "liberty."

It was a stern word as spoken by the secretary, a challenge contrasting sharply with the gay candles and pink frosting of a birthday cake brought into his press conference by newspapermen assigned to the state department.

For he spoke not of the rights and privileges and prerogatives of liberty, but of its "terrific responsibility."

Against a background of 49 years of government service, federal and state, Hull said: "One of the most important lessons that has occurred to me out of this long contact and experience has been that statesmen and peoples everywhere must recognize the strong responsibility which liberty imposes on those who enjoy it."

"They must stand for stable government, for the intelligent and unselfish application of those ideas and practices which make for peace, stability and social advancement. They must have an equally strong determination to avoid the pursuit of one-sided, artificial, self-defeating ideas and practices in national and international affairs.

"This requires sacrifice. This terrific responsibility is not realized today, either here or anywhere, as it should and must be recognized."

Hull has been Secretary of State for nine years—the longest period any man has served in that post. There were 21 candles on the birthday cake, one for each of the 21 American republics in whose destiny Hull has played and is playing a significant role. Some one called it a "good neighbor" birthday cake.

Umbrella Scare

"Quick! There's a peculiar noise outside the front of my house. Don't know what it is. Maybe a prowler!" telephoned an excited householder of Camosun Street to city police at 2:20 this morning.

Police speeded to the scene, stopped the prowler car around the corner and approached cautiously.

Everything seemed to be in order. There was no sign of life. All of a sudden a scraping, hollow sound came from the front porch. What was making the noise?—an open umbrella moving around in the wind.

R.A.F. Boys Like Canada, But Would Rather Be Home

If rafters ever did ring, they rang at the R.A.F. mess hall at Pat Bay Thursday night.

Two hundred and fifty English youths of the Royal Air Force, easy going, carefree, sat around tables drinking ale and smoking cigars and cigarettes until a haze hung around the trusses of the ceiling. They were guests of the city of Victoria at a variety show and smoker organized by Alderman W. H. Davies of the civic entertainment committee.

Some of Victoria's outstanding showmen, along with a few R.A.F. artists, put on the program.

Twenty cases of ale and half a dozen cases of soft drinks were consumed. Three hundred home-made sandwiches went the same way, as did big supplies of cake and candies.

Opening with a community sing, the youths sang and shouted R.A.F. songs and popular American and Canadian numbers. Sammy Harrison presented impersonations. Cpl. John Best, an R.A.F. crooner, sang. Jerry Gosley read his own rhyming monologue of air force life in the style of the mustard-tied Western boys.

William Harkness, the Canadian Houdini, brought a barrage of applause as he drew the crowd into the realm of the mysterious. The "Tune Termites" brought shouts of "more" for their presentations.

The second part of the program included repetitions by the previous artists and the "Wizard of the Keyboard," Sgt. P. Michelin. Bert White who, dressed as a Chinaman came to collect his laundry bill, brought much applause, and moistened more than one eye when he found his fiddle and played "Dannie Boy."

Judged by the enthusiasm of the applause the show was a great success. The R.A.F. boys said they liked it.

Yes, despite certain differences, they like it here in Canada. But to English youths, used to big cities close together, Pat Bay is like being in a desert with the village of Victoria 20 miles away.

NOT LIKE ENGLAND

"You know, Victoria is not really like England is now," an electric mechanic said. "It was like England. Like England was 20 years ago."

Syd Seff, who is from Essex, thought the Canadian Rockies were far more magnificent than anything he could have imagined. He likes it here in Victoria but he is sorry to be away from it all.

J. Litman of Bristol misses his English beer. "I'd love a glass of bitter with the deep froth on top now," he commented. He also thinks Canadian girls are awfully stand-offish.

WOULD SHARE DANGERS

Many like Canada and Canadian ways but most of them have one complaint in common.

They complain because they are 6,000 miles from home, 6,000 miles from their friends, their loved ones—brothers, sisters, sweethearts, mothers, fathers—and would rather share risks with them than live in safety in another country.

Having been through air raids, on reading in the paper that five cities were bombed, the ground shakes under them for each bomb dropped. The fire of each incendiary blazes up before their eyes. The wall of the siren is constantly in their ears. Those they hold dear to them are in danger.

Most of the boys have been here six weeks now. They have received letters from home but not yet any in answer to their inquiries.

"We feel we are on a holiday when there is work to do," one man said.

Everyone questioned said he would far sooner be in England than Canada despite all the hardships he would have to bear there.

Appeals Allowed Mental Patients

The right of appeal to independent doctors for a review of their cases is granted patients in British Columbia mental hospitals by a section of the Mental Hospitals Act brought into operation today by the provincial government.

The new formula was written into the act last session of the House, but has not been operative until now.

It provides that a patient who has been in a mental hospital for at least three months may apply to have his case reviewed by two duly qualified medical practitioners with the hospital staff.

The government is setting up a panel of medical men who will agree to sit on such cases and two will be selected to act each month.

The government pays expenses of the appeals and it is provided that each case should be heard within a month after the month in which notice is given.

A properly authorized representative of a patient may apply on behalf of a patient if that is desired.

The outside doctors will be given full access to the mental hospital records and any other information dealing with a patient's case. If they certify that a patient no longer needs mental treatment the medical superintendent is required to discharge the patient from the hospital.

If a patient loses an appeal he may appeal again after a year has elapsed. Criminally insane persons, or those adjudged insane while on trial, are not permitted to appeal.

TRUCK HITS POLE, SOLDIER INJURED

Condition today of Private Thomas Kennedy, R.C.O.C., who was seriously injured in an army truck accident on Esquimalt Road, near Head Street, Thursday, was reported to be fairly good.

Kennedy, whose home is in Richmond, Calif., received fractures of the left hip and arm and scalp injuries when a truck in which he was riding with a number of other soldiers, crashed into a telephone pole, Esquimalt police said.

He was rushed to Work Point Military Hospital.

None of the other soldiers in the truck were injured. The truck was travelling from Work Point Barracks towards Victoria at the time of the accident.

TOWN TOPICS

Case of David Walter Farmer, charged in Saanich Police Court with failing to report for military service, was adjourned for one week Thursday afternoon.

Six motorists were fined $2.50 each in City Police Court today on parking charges, including parking over one and two hours in restricted zones and night parking.

An average daily attendance of 120 to 150 men, with 400 making general use of the facilities provided, was reported at a meeting of the Citizens' Recreation Rooms committee Thursday. Good supplies of books and other reading material have been received. At present one of the rooms is being used as headquarters for the War Services Library, where books are received and routed to the various services. This assistance is being extended without charge. The rooms will be open Sundays for the winter months, commencing on November 2.

130 New Officers Graduated Today

As the strains of the National Anthem wafted across the parade square at Gordon Head Training Centre today, Lieutenant-Governor Woodward took the salute of 100 cadets, who, as their names were called off, marched up to receive commissions, and left the stand as officers.

Victoria men who became 2nd lieutenants were: G. L. Dunlop, D. L. E. Meredith, A. B. Anderson, J. O. McNamee, J. H. Ford, R. Kirk-Owen, R. F. Sails, D. L. McMurtrie, A. B. Wright, J. D. C. McTavish, W. R. Campbell, E. H. Cabellu and S. A. Rands.

This is the third class to graduate from the centre. Now, with 12 weeks' basic training behind them, the officers will leave for advanced training schools.

Following the presentations, Lieutenant-Governor Woodward addressed the group, telling the new officers of responsibilities they must face.

The Lieutenant-Governor congratulated the officers on having completed their course, and reminded them that they were inheriting the glorious traditions of the battalions of the old Canadian Corps of the Great War.

"You will go out on these new careers equipped and ready to fulfil the high responsibilities of leadership," he said. "I know that you will give a good account of yourselves, and when this war is over we shall hang Hitler, his gangsters, Mussolini and his wops."

His Honor paid tribute to the smart appearance of the class which marched past the saluting base in columns of platoons in slow time.

Maj.-Gen. R. O. Alexander, D.S.O., G.O.C.-in-chief, Pacific Command, thanked His Honor for having presented the certificates to the graduates.

Thursday evening the graduating class were the guests of honor at a farewell dinner at the training centre. Addressing them then, Major-General Alexander said the King's commission is one of the greatest privileges in the world.

"As your privileges increase in the service, you will find they lay upon you a charge that places within your keeping leadership, training and welfare of those who serve under you," he said.

Officers entered the greatest fraternity of the world, he said, and in serving their country the welfare of those dear to them was their greatest responsibility. "It should be your purpose that every man who serves under you will leave the army a better citizen than when he donned the uniform," he said.

Col. A. D. Wilson, D.S.O., commandant at Gordon Head, paid tribute to the high calibre of the men. He forecast improved accommodation at the training centre for subsequent classes.

INSURANCE MEN DISCUSS PLANS

Two hundred Washington and Oregon field representatives of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company returned to their work today after participating in a two-day convention at the Empress Hotel.

Plans for the coming year, and methods whereby they may cooperate most efficiently in the country's defence program, were the topics considered during the round-table discussions.

Speakers during the sessions were H. E. North, regional vice-president in charge of the west coast; J. Smithies, superintendent of agencies, and J. O. Kline, assistant superintendent of agencies. All are from San Francisco.

In the depths of the ocean, mud deposits grow at the slow rate of scarcely a third of an inch in 1,000 years.

Enrollment Heavy At Night School

The swing to night school reached a new high in the city Thursday night as prospective students registered for courses provided under the auspices of the City School Board, according to reports today from George Anstey, director.

In nine subjects no more students may be enrolled, the classes having reached capacity during the original registration. Included in that category are steam engineering, sheet metal work, practical mathematics, evening dressmaking, auto mechanics, photography, woodwork, typing and shorthand and typing.

A few more may be taken into navigation, machine construction, day dressmaking and auto engineering groups, while other classes, although up to numerical standard, will be open for additional students for a limited time.

Continuance of courses in lip-reading, modern merchandising and applied design would depend upon early enrollment of more students, the authorities stated today. Each class must have a minimum of 10 students to be maintained.

In order to accommodate the number seeking instruction in journalism, an extra class is expected to be opened Thursday, making classes Monday and Thursday.

The unusual number of those registering for navigation has already necessitated establishment of a Thursday class, in addition to the Monday class. Officials were surprised Thursday night at the registration of women for that course.

While classes officially open next week and instruction will start without delay, registrations will be accepted throughout the week at the various centres by those who were unable to enrol Thursday night. That prerogative is limited, however, to those courses for which capacity registrations have not been made.

Community Chest Seeking $69,500

Curtailing budgets to reduce the drain on pocketbooks hard hit by wartime demands, the Victoria Community Chest will seek an objective of approximately $69,500 this year, it was announced at headquarters today.

The announcement followed an executive meeting Thursday afternoon at which progress reports were given by different committees.

Last year the chest joined the Red Cross in a joint campaign for $100,000. The previous objective, when the chest worked independently, was $85,000.

As an outgrowth of early deliberations, officials are inviting volunteer canvassers to register for work this year. Those willing to assist are requested to contact headquarters at 1205 Government Street or chairmen of any of the regular committees.

The actual drive will get under way locally on October 15, with the special names group swinging into action. They will be followed in the staggered canvass by committees in charge of business, industrial and long-range appeals, prior to the women's house-to-house canvass opening November 3.

At Thursday's meeting K. Leeming, R. Mathews and M. F. Hunter gave reports on auditing, publicity and speakers arrangements. They were followed by outlines by G. H. Stevens, S. Armstrong, Miss S. Spencer, C. S. Henley and D. MacBride on preparations made by the different collection divisions for their approaches to potential givers.

Continued use of cash donation boxes was approved. Attention was given tonight's radio appeals by President Roosevelt and Wendell L. Willkie over major networks, drawing attention to the need for continued support of the funds raised annually for community benefit.

The President and Mr. Willkie headline an imposing list of programs arranged both in Canada and the United States, enlisting public assistance for those in difficult financial circumstances.

Driver Fined $30

When found guilty by Magistrate H. C. Hall in Saanich Police Court Thursday of driving in a dangerous manner on the B.C. Electric right-of-way, September 14, Herbert Simmonds was fined $30 and his driver's license was suspended for three months.

Two motorists were fined $5 each for driving without a license and failing to stop at a stop sign.

Another motorist drew a suspended sentence on a charge of speeding through a school zone when he said he was a stranger in town and was not acquainted with the regulations.

Triple-yolk Egg By Twin Boy's Pullet

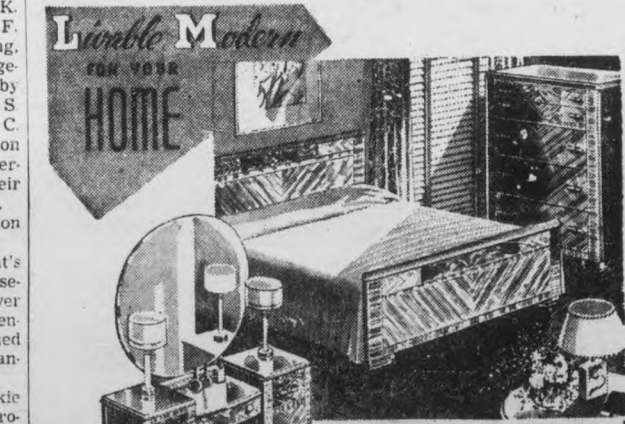

Rodney Keith Perkins, 15, of 2924 Graham Street, has a couple of pullets who are working hard for him.

Every Thursday both pullets lay double-yolk eggs. Yesterday one of the pullets made a special effort and produced a three-yolk egg. This is the second egg of this kind to be laid in Victoria.

Rodney Keith thinks there is something unusual about his twin Rhode Island Reds who lay double yolks for him every Thursday because he himself is a twin. His brother, however, doesn't bother about chickens.

British Sub Escapes
In 7-hour Chase

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP)—Tales of an eerie night on the moonlit Mediterranean and of seven weary hours on the ocean floor were told Thursday by British and Free French submarine officers, released from their pledge of silence.

In his first public interview, held at Portsmouth navy yard, Cmdr. Michael G. Rimington of H.M.S. Parthian told of harrowing experiences after a 6,000-ton Italian freighter was seen through the periscope of the Parthian.

What did not show, however, was a destroyer and two motor anti-sub boats escorting her.

Cmdr. Rimington let go torpedoes, two of which hit.

At almost the same instant, though, he said, the escorting vessels spotted the sub, which immediately started a dive.

A dozen depth charges churned the water for yards around the hunt was on for seven long weary hours but the Parthian made good her escape.

The commander told also of an escape one moonlight night in the clear phosphorescent waters of the Mediterranean, while the sub was idling on the surface recharging her batteries. Suddenly the lookout spotted two torpedoes headed straight toward them.

Cmdr. Rimington swung his ship and the torpedoes, from a sub which they neither saw nor heard, passed barely 50 yards away.

Lt.-Cmdr. Louis G. Blaisson, acting commander of the Free French submarine Surcouf, said that his ship, the world's heaviest submarine, had been manned by volunteers at an English port just after Dunkerque.

"We've been lucky," said the 35-year-old officer, explaining that at one time 80 consecutive days had passed without an enemy craft being sighted.

Nearest thing to action for this Free French 4,000-ton sub, which carries two eight-inch guns and an airplane, came when she was spotted by enemy airplanes while crossing the English Channel.

Several bombs landed near her before she reached the bottom to rest there until the attack was over.

'Unadulterated Hell'

Ship Arrives Safely
After Triple Attack

VANCOUVER (CP)—A story of what he termed "pure, unadulterated hell" is recorded by J. S. McClure, Vancouver, chief radio officer of the Canadian Marconi Company, in a letter to Leslie S. Hawkins, Vancouver manager of the company, in which he tells of his "terrifying and nerve-racking experiences," when his ship was raked by German bombers.

"I've had a fire at sea, a collision, sent an S.O.S. after a typhoon and been in several other nasty spots, including the Japanese earthquake, but for pure, unadulterated hell, this beats them all," McClure wrote.

Serving with McClure at the time were two other Vancouver men, W. F. Messiter, whose mother lives in Victoria, and Eric Hammer, Messiter's father, Col. Messiter, an old British army man, died recently.

"By all the rules of the game," McClure wrote to Mr. Hawkins, "today you should be minus three members of your staff. Now, days after our escape, we are still congratulating ourselves on cheating the Luftwaffe and marveling how we all escaped after a big German bomber, flying so low that it just skimmed the masthead, dropped bombs and riddled the ship with cannon and machine gun bullets three times.

SUDDEN ATTACK
"We weren't prepared for the attack," McClure wrote. "The alarm came at 9:15 p.m. I rolled out of bed and went next door. Messiter, who was on watch, answered my question that it wasn't a practice. Through the din of the klaxon the idea struck us at the same time—we were in for it."

"We did not have long to wait. We felt the shocks as our high-angle gun went off and then the roar of airplane engines and the crump, chump, crack, crack of bullets sounded overhead, followed almost immediately by one or two explosions that shook the ship."

HUGE EXPLOSION

"Above the noise of our own gun the sound of the bomber's engines came again," McClure wrote.

"More crashes and crumps. It sounded as if the rigging and funnel had fallen on top of us. The crumps and crumps started again, became louder and passed over us, and then a terrible explosion that lifted the ship and nearly threw us off our feet. We looked at each other and said 'She got it that time.' The lights went out, but only for a moment and the ship stopped."

"Smoke was trickling from the stern and we were moving slowly through the water. With the thought that we would soon be taking to the boats, a make-shift connection was made and we sent off another message. Suddenly a voice from the bridge yelled, 'He's coming back again. Get below!'"

The bomber failed to return, however, McClure said, and several hours later a destroyer took up position nearby.

A little later three bombers attacked the ship, but were driven off when the ship's gun opened up.

The ship reached port safely next day after the destroyer had driven off a U-boat.

Ships at U.S. Ports

WASHINGTON (AP)—A total of 28 British and Free French war vessels of various types and sizes, are or have been, in United States ports for repairs.

The ships range from the huge British aircraft carriers Illustrious and Formidable and the battleship Wasp to destroyers. Among the latter class was the Burnham, one of the 50 destroyers sent to Britain under the destroyer-island base trade. The Burnham, formerly the United States destroyer Aulick, put in at Boston for repairs.

One of the latest fighters to arrive was the 4,300-ton Free French submarine Surcouf, in dock at the Portsmouth, N.H., navy yard. A British submarine, the Parthian, also was at the same port.

Cowichan Loses
Loved Pioneer

DUNCAN — News has just been received in Duncan of the death in England of Harry Evan Evans, one of the district's original settlers, at the age of 92. Mr. Evans was one of four brothers who pioneered in the Somenos and Quamichan districts. He was predeceased by two brothers, James of Duncan, and David of Somenos, both of whom died at an advanced age, David having been 93. A third brother, John N. Evans, Cowichan historian and former member of the local Legislature, is still living and is 95 years of age.

Harry Evans, as he was generally known, was the youngest of the four Evans brothers. He was born on January 5, 1849, at Berriew, Wales. He left for Cheshire in 1861, and there learned the trade of carpenter and joiner. He came to California in 1869 and worked on the Capitol Building in Sacramento and in a sash and door factory there.

In 1873 he came to B.C. to take care of his brother John's place and subsequently made his home with Joseph Drinkwater and his brother, David, at Somenos for a number of years. He took a contract to chop and clear a certain amount of land for Joseph Drinkwater, and received in payment 160 acres of land on which he built a house and resided there. He later acquired more land.

BUILT FIRST CHURCH
Following his trade as a carpenter he did some finishing work on the Old Stone Church. With W. C. Duncan he built the two first lumber churches in the district, St. Peter's, Quamichan, and St. Mary's, Somenos. This was in 1879 and 1880. St. Peter's Church has since been enlarged and the first church at Somenos was built.

Among his other works he made all the coffins for the old timers. He was the only undertaker in the district in those days, and there were no ready-made coffins to be procured.

He served several terms as councillor for Somenos Ward and was foreman on the government roads for a number of years. On his farm he kept many cattle which ranged on the mountain-

Golds Run Up

TORONTO (CP)—Firming tendencies were noted during late trading on Toronto Stock Exchange today, especially among featured golds, and the better prices went hand-in-hand with improved volume which picked up noticeably in the last two hours.

Active and strong golds included the two prospects, Duquesne and Queenston, which gained 1 and 6½ cents, respectively. Chesterville ran up to a new high for the year at 1.85 and closed around 1.83, up 11. Upper Canada was a late feature, adding 7.

Some industrial leaders such as Imperial Oil, Massey and Bell tacked on fractions but the list generally was irregular. Fanny Farmer eased to a new low for the year at 21½ but closed around 21½, off ½.

There was little doing among base metals but Steel Corp. added 5. Western oils were dull. Calgary and Edmonton added a few cents and Homestead moved on a few sales to a new high for the year at 3, up a cent.

Harry sold his farm nearly 30 years ago and left to reside with his sister in Berkshire, England. Since taking up residence in England, Mr. Evans has made several return visits to his old home here. During the Great War he visited military hospitals and camps in England to meet Cowichan men in the overseas forces. Robert Service, the Canadian poet, formerly lived with Mr. Evans at Somenos.

John N. Evans, who was 95 last May, is the sole survivor of the four Evans brothers. James Evans died in 1906 and David died in 1934.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

Tigers Are Good Swimmers and Can Climb Trees

Yesterday I spoke of a tiger trap which is made of spiked logs. That is a common way of destroying tigers in Thailand, but it is not the only method used.

Another Thailand trap is a kind of hut with a "drop door." As the tiger goes inside to obtain a piece of meat left there as bait, it steps on a treadle which causes the door to fall down. This leaves the beast a prisoner inside the hut. Later it can be shot to death without much trouble.

Tigers are feared in Thailand and elsewhere because some of them are man-eaters. Hundreds of persons in Asia, chiefly in India, fall victims to tigers every year.

A full-grown tiger may measure from six to seven feet in length, not counting the tail. The tail usually is about three or three and a half feet long. From the tip of the nose to the tip of the tail a large tiger may measure as much as 10½ feet. The weight may be from 500 to 600 pounds.

Tigers are good swimmers and do not seem to mind going into the water. In that way they differ from their distant relatives, house cats, which are rather shy about water.

Tigers do not climb trees as a regular thing, but they are able to climb when they choose to do so.

Tigers don't roar like lions. Yet they produce a "coughing howl" which is very loud.

Three tiger cubs make up the most common litter. Yet there may be only two in a litter, or the number may be as great as five or six.

When the cubs are a few months old the mother tiger takes them out on trips so they can watch her kill animals.

Tigers are found about grassy plains, in swamps and in forests. Their striped bodies match well with tall jungle grass.

A hungry tiger often lies in wait in deep shade, crouching beside a bush or boulder. When a victim comes near the tiger springs forth. In a single bound it may land on a deer or wild hog. Peacocks and peahens are among the smaller victims of tigers.

Tigers kill many cattle and water buffaloes. The water buffalo has been known to win a fight to the death with a tiger, but more often the tiger kills the water buffalo.

Oil burners are more efficient if excess air is reduced, engineers at Iowa State College declare—just the opposite of the usual consumer belief that increasing air in the burner saves fuel.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—After my husband's death my son and myself lived together for quite a while in the old home. Then he married and brought his wife to live with us, with the complete understanding before they married that the three of us would have to remain in the same house, as he was unable to support two establishments. We agreed to dwell congenially together and we have lived up to the understanding. We are never unkind to each other, never argue or quarrel, and everything is peaceful and harmonious. My daughter-in-law is always thinking and planning for my pleasure and I try in return to do for her by taking care of the babies, helping her with her work. Never offer advice unless it is solicited. Never interfere with her plans. But in spite of this I always have the feeling of being the third party in the house, so to speak, and there is always the thought in my mind that she resents living in this manner. How can we mothers-in-law who are left dependent on our children find more happiness and satisfaction in life?

A PERPLEXED MOTHER.

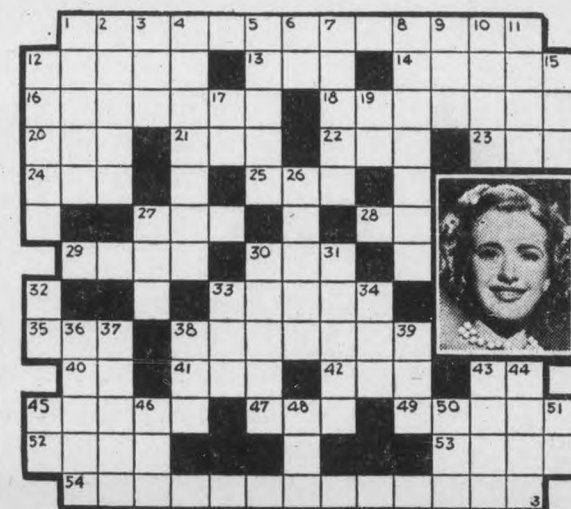

Answer: Every woman in the world would like to have her house to herself without any other woman in it if she could, and this is the case whether the other woman is her own mother or her husband's mother.

It would be folly to deny this because every woman remembers how, when she was young, she wanted to run her own home according to her own pleasure, without suggestion or advice from others, and more especially how she wanted to be alone with her husband and children who made up her little world.

And perhaps it is this remembrance that makes so many women who are compelled by lack of money to live with their daughters-in-law to go into the relationship with a chip on their shoulders, suspicious of everything their sons and their wives do, and with their feelings so spread all over the place that daughter-in-law has to be a mental acrobat in order to leap over their prejudices and keep them from stepping on their sensibilities.

DOROTHY DIX.

Paddy Finucane Modest, Won't Talk of Air Exploits

By DOUGLAS AMARON

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (CP)—Paddy Finucane sat on the edge of a chair in the briefing room of an R.A.F. station, puffing a cigarette and glancing at his watch, which showed 30 minutes to wait before taking off for France.

A gramophone played swing music in one corner and in another a mechanic twisted the dials of a radio. Airmen in "Mae Wests" played poker for pennies and two sergeant pilots tossed a coin to see which would get the one spot left on the forthcoming flight.

The squadron, an Australian Spitfire unit in the wing commanded by Wing-Comdr. John A. Kent of Winnipeg, was escorting bombers to Abbeville. The airmen were waiting for final instructions.

REAL ACE

"We're really an uninteresting crowd," said Paddy, a slim, fresh-faced, 21-year-old flight-lieutenant from Dublin. "If you're looking for a story, there's a real ace over there—he got four planes in a couple of weeks."

He pointed to an Australian sergeant pilot who had just promised to bring back a glove he borrowed from the pilot who lost the toss.

But Paddy was a pretty good story himself—or would have been had he been willing to tell some of the experiences he had shooting down 20½ German planes and winning the Distinguished Flying Cross and two bars.

The commanding officer came into the room and the men were quiet while he described in about 10 words the job they had to do. The men filed out the door, climbed into their Spitfires, wheeled them into the wind and set off for France.

Kent, grounded because of a cold, watched the fighters come back in dribbles and frowning, said "I don't like the sound of it—when they come in that way it usually means a scrap." And a scrap it had been.

EXCITED

"Paddy got three, sir," a mechanic shouted excitedly as Kent approached.

"I've had an amazingly lucky day, sir," said Paddy, hastening to add that it was only two because "I didn't see the third crash." Someone else did, however, so Paddy's score went to 18½ and he got a few more pats on the back.

(His 19th and 20th planes came the next day.)

A red-headed Australian pilot officer climbed from the cockpit and the smile on his face told that he too had seen action.

"I was damned lucky, sir," he reported. "Got two."

"Paddy got three," someone shouted and the red-head called back "Swell stuff."

"Yes, I'm a bloody old hog," replied the Irishman, and dashed off to the mess to escape the pummeling and hand-shaking going the rounds.

Kent pieced together details of the operation, from which two planes were missing. The operation raised the station's total of planes destroyed since the start of the war to 402 confirmed.

the fuhrer of our great political party? Lindbergh! Yes, that is not as far-fetched as you think. You know he would carry the public with him very easily. The Americans like him.

"You may not know it, but there is some one behind Lindbergh. He did not go to Europe just for the fun of it. He was sent there for a specific purpose—to study conditions in Europe, to learn how dictators run their countries. Lindbergh will return at the right moment. And the people will call on him to lead them."

"Lindbergh will take charge, probably of the third party. I don't say for sure he will, but it is much more likely than you think. And when he does, he will be a great liberal leader. That's why he'll fit into the third party. Yes; there are a lot of things being planned the public knows nothing about as yet."

"This was disclosed today in a study of the files of the Chicago Times, which in September, 1937, ran a series of articles exposing the Nazi movement in the U.S. The series was written by John C. Metcalfe, a former Dies Committee investigator who gathered material for it by joining the Amerika-deutscher Volksbund as a storm-trooper named Hellmut Oberwinder."

In the course of an article published by the Chicago Times on September 16, 1937, Metcalfe quoted a private conversation he had with Hermann Schwarzmann, leader of the Astoria (L.I.) post of the Bund.

Schwarzmann was quoted by Metcalfe as follows: "You know who might become

Record of Liberals Gives Future Story

Opening his campaign as Liberal candidate in Saanich for the coming provincial election, Norman W. Whittaker addressed a public meeting in the Royal Oak Women's Institute Hall Thursday night on the record of the Liberal government in the last eight years.

"I am not asking for your vote on any specific promise," he said. "I ask you to take the Liberal government's past performance as an earnest as to what will happen in the future."

W. T. Straith, one of the Liberal candidates for Victoria, was second speaker on the program. Chairman was Frank Huck. The meeting lasted 1 hour and 10 minutes.

Mr. Whittaker opened his address in answering criticisms he said had been made against the government for holding an election at the present time.

He said the life of the present Parliament would terminate next June so an election would have to be held between now and then. So far as the war situation was concerned, now was the time for the election.

Major Hunter, one of Victoria's Conservative candidates, had said the government's extravagance was ruining the province. Mr. Whittaker asserted, and there should not be an election.

"He must think the government is in pretty good hands to make such a statement," the speaker said.

Mr. Whittaker dealt with the financial position of the government in opening his remarks on the past record of the Liberal regime.

When the Liberal administration took office in 1933, the province's credit was the lowest in the whole of Canada. Now its credit was second only to Ontario.

"No other province can show a reduction in its gross debt in the last eight years," the speaker added.

There had been an increase in B.C.'s net debt in that period, he admitted, but added that it had not been an alarming increase.

Mr. Whittaker paid tribute to Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, for the sound condition of the province's financial position at the present time.

"He is one of the greatest financiers the province has ever known," the speaker said.

CONTRIBUTION TO WAR

The Conservative leader had criticized B.C.'s contribution to the war effort.

"This province's contribution is outstanding," Mr. Whittaker said. "I point first to the fact that from the beginning of this year to September 26 the provincial debt of $27,000,000 has been paid off."

Through this, financial support had been given the war effort. The money could have been used for other purposes such as road work, he said.

"The road work being done at present on the East Saanich Road is being done with the regular maintenance fund voted the district," he said, "and is not a form of bribery of the voters near election time as has been the accusations of some people."

Another financial contribution to the war effort was the fact that B.C. did not hesitate in assuming the federal government's share of unemployment relief when it was asked to do so.

The B.C. government was first, also, to agree to the federal government's suggestion the provinces give up the collection of income taxes.

"Our income tax supplied one-third, or approximately $12,000,000, of our annual income," he said.

Mr. Whittaker spoke of improvements of health conditions, referring mainly to tuberculosis control, and said the death rate from the disease from 1934 to 1941 had declined 15 per cent over the period from 1927 to 1933.

Included in the record of the government along humanitarian lines was the recent improvements in the mothers' allowance, and the administration had gone on record as favoring an increase in old age pensions and a reduction in the age limit.

In the case of old age pensions, he explained, the federal government paid 75 per cent and the provincial government 25 per cent, which meant that any policy laid down in this respect had to be done with the co-operation of the two governments.

"Until such policy can be made, the provincial government is contemplating paying a cost of living bonus to pensioners," Mr. Whittaker said.

An outstanding achievement was the passing of the Industrial Disputes and Conciliation Act, which provided for collective bar-thought in the Liberal government and compared this policy with those of the Conservative and C.C.F. parties.

"We find that in the Conservative party the leader will not accept a man as a Conservative candidate because the man differs with the Conservative road commission policy," Mr. Straith said.

"In the C.C.F. party no man can hold two positions at the same time," he continued, "so when Dr. Telford ran for mayor of Vancouver while he was a member of the Legislature, he was dismissed from the C.C.F. party and became an independent."

The policies of the two parties were rigid, but in the Liberal party there was freedom of thought.

Mr. Straith dealt at length on the immediate need for plans of rehabilitation of men serving in the forces of agriculture and industry, for when the war was concluded.

"If we are elected we know full well the next four years will not be easy ones," the speaker said.

Prisoner of War Tells Experiences

Walter Keeble, Mexican consul in Victoria, told the Kinsmen Club Thursday of experiences as a prisoner of war in Germany during the conflict of 1914-18.

He said he was in Cologne when war broke out, and on his way down the Rhine River to Holland and eventually to England he was taken off the river boat by German authorities with other Englishmen when it was learned they were reservists.

They were placed in a prison camp where, he said, the English got the worst of everything. In the early fall he was released when he used pretext of being a property owner in Cologne, but was again interned in November, 1914, and remained in a camp just outside Berlin for the next four years.

Mr. Keeble said the camp included the grounds of a racetrack and he was lodged in a hayloft with other prisoners. There were no sanitary arrangements of any kind. He stated that treatment was harsh and food bad in the first winter.

However, the speaker said, the men took the edge off their miseries by organizing sport and musical activities. The prisoners formed a choir of 100 and an orchestra of 50, and played soccer and tennis.

After the first winter food arrived from England via the Red Cross in Holland and prisoners fed well. Mr. Keeble said he never heard of anyone losing one of those Red Cross parcels. In three years and nine months he received 350 packages.

In January, 1918, he went to Holland when he was included in a prisoner exchange between the British and Germans. For the first three months the prisoners fed well in Holland, then the food became poor and scarce. Mr. Keeble said he found out it was being sent to Germany under threats from the German government.

Happy Woman's Story

Everyone who is subject to any form of indigestion should know of this woman's experiences. Advice from one who has had such severe attacks is advice worth having. She writes:—

"I suffered from indigestion, gastritis and constipation, and was so very ill, I had (on medical advice) to live on soda biscuits and milk for three months. Well, a friend advised me to take Kruschen, and now I am pleased to say I am greatly improved. I can eat and enjoy a good meal without any painful after-effects, my skin is clearer—in fact, quite clear—and there is no sign of constipation. I would advise anyone suffering the same to take Kruschen."

(Mrs.) M. R. L. The immediate effect of the several salts in Kruschen is to stimulate your liver and kidneys to normal action and help to free your system of poisonous waste matter. Soon after you start on Kruschen you will find that you are able to enjoy your food without distressing after-effects.

The help of every Canadian is needed for Victory. In these days of war the thoughtless, selfish spender is a traitor to our war effort. A reduction in personal spending is now a vital necessity to relieve the pressure for goods, to enable more and more labour and materials to be diverted to winning the war. The all-out effort, which Canada must make, demands this self-denial of each of us. Invest in War Savings Certificates the dollars you don't need to spend. After Victory, they come back to you with interest. Spend less now so that you can spend more then, when labour and materials will be available for the things you need. There is no price too high for freedom.
